COSTELLO RIGHTS NOT INFRINGED BY NEWS CAMERAS, TV, COURT RULES

Judge Leaves Up to Jury Whether Racketeer's Physical or Mental Condition Prevented His Testifying.

By ALVIN H. GOLDSTEIN
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Jan. 12—The constitutional rights of Frank Costello were not infringed, United States District Judge Sylvester J. Ryan ruled yesterday, by having to testify before television and newsreel cameras during the Kefauver Senate Crime Committee hearings last March. The ruling came in the 60-year-old racketeer's trial on contempt charges.

Judge Ryan's ruling was announced as he denied a defense motion to dismiss all 11 counts of the indictment. The motion was one of several made by George Wolf, Costello's attorney. Wolf made the motions after the Government rested its case against the gambler. Only four witnesses were called for the Government.

Jury May Get Case Monday.

The jury was excused until Monday. There was a possibility that they might get the case to decide on that day.

Judge Ryan said he gave the ruling that Costello's constitutional and civil rights remained undisturbed as a matter of law.

"It is still left to the jury to determine as a matter of fact whether the witness was unable to testify because of his mental or physical condition resulting from the surroundings," Judge Ryan added.

Wolf contended that the Fifth Amendment, which forbids the "deprivation of life, liberty and property without due process," can also be extended to embrace "a man's freedom to use his mental faculties." "It is the duty of those conducting the hearings," he argued, "to conduct an examination in a manner that will not deprive the witness of the use of his mental capacities."

Halley Is Quoted.

United States Attorney Myles Lane pointed out that Rudolph Halley, former chief counsel to the Kefauver committee and now president of the City Council of New York City, had described conditions in the hearing room as "not much different than in this courtroom."

Costello faces charges of refusing to answer certain questions about his net worth and with walking out on the committee hearings on March 15. Judge Ryan's ruling leaves it up to the jury whether Costello's claim of having "chronic laryngitis" together with conditions in the hearing room gave him a right to stalk out of the hearing.

Another prop to the Costello defense was removed when Judge Ryan ruled that the gangster had no right to refuse answers to the committee on the ground that his replies would incriminate him.

Excuse Forfeited.

Judge Ryan ruled also that Costello had forfeited legal recourse to constitutional privilege as an excuse for withholding information about his finances.

Only four of the 11 contempt counts were affected by the court's ruling eliminating the plea of self-incrimination as a defense. Three concern his "walkouts" without permission after asserting he was too ill to testify. Another four are based on questions about his political ties, which he answered after once refusing.

In his motion for a directed verdict of acquittal, Wolf argued that the nature of the questions put by the Senate investigators to his client to determine his net worth and details of his total liabilities and assets, were of such

Parents Fined Over Girl's Curls, Give 5 Children to Judge to Rear

THEOLA BARTON

They Leave Brood in Office After He Upholds School That Barred Daughter.

ANTIOCH, Calif., Jan. 12 (AP)—Justice of the Peace Yates Hamm has five children on his hands today all because of some girlish pin curls.

The children, aged 3 to 11, were given to the judge by Mr. and Mrs. Amos Barton after he fined them both $10 each for allowing their 15-year-old daughter Theola to stay home from school.

Theola had been sent home from school for wearing pin curls, an act backed by the state attorney general. He handed down an opinion saying school authorities had the right to forbid the girl to come to school with her hair in pin curls.

When the Bartons, who sided with their daughter, appeared in court yesterday and were assessed the fine, Mrs. Barton rose and declared they would not pay. She read a long statement, quoting the Scripture, berating school and probation departments, the Board of Education and the attorney general.

Then she declared: "It seems you've taken the education of our children unto yourself. We have something to give you, Judge. We're appointing you the legal guardian of our five youngest children to raise, to feed and to educate." With that the Bartons stalked out.

Hamm found in his outer office the five young Bartons: Doreen, 11; John, 8; Tommy, 7; Cheryl, 6; and Timothy, 3. All were in tears. The judge hurriedly gave them 50 cents each to quiet them.

After consulting a probation officer Judge Hamm had the children sent to the juvenile hall.

Both Hamm and the probation officer predicted the Bartons will miss their blond youngsters before Monday and try to get them back. Meanwhile, a petition was filed to make Theola a ward of the juvenile court.

HOTEL GUESTS BALK AT MOVING OUT FOR FIRE SAFETY WORK

Police of the Newstead Avenue station are at a loss as to how to proceed in the case of the Parkview Hotel, 40 North Kingshighway. The hotel last week was denied a permit to operate for failure to comply with the city's fire safety code, but permanent guests of the establishment refuse to move.

Capt. William Washer of the Newstead district reported yesterday that a check showed the hotel management had posted notice of the city's action on the bulletin board and had requested all guests to vacate their rooms. The notice added the guests would be welcomed back after alterations are completed in about three weeks.

Harry Schwartz, 5212 Raymond avenue, hotel manager, said many of the permanent guests had asked if they might sign any kind of form to relieve the hotel of responsibility, so far as they were concerned. Sixty-five per cent of the guests in the 107-room establishment are permanent ones, he said. Only one has left.

Capt. Washer has asked for a legal opinion from the city counselor's office as to just what police should do under the circumstances.

UAW'S WATCHDOG BEING WATCHED BECAUSE OF BARKS

DETROIT, Jan. 12 (AP)—The legal eye is watching the dog that watches the international headquarters of the CIO United Auto Workers. Purpose of the scrutiny is to determine whether Schatz, a German shepherd, is a nuisance.

Schatz, sole member of UAW watchdog local No. 1, has to bark in discharging his duties at the union building here. The neighbors are complaining.

Walter Reuther, as head of the union, was named in the complaint yesterday by four residents of Alden Park Manor, apartment hotel adjacent to the UAW headquarters. The four said Schatz's barking disturbed their sleep and menaced their health.

Traffic and Ordinance Referee Oscar Riopelle adjourned the case for a week. In the meantime, he plans to visit Schatz's doghouse.

"Dogs don't generally like me," said Riopelle. "If he doesn't bark at me, then he must be gentle."

MORE THAN 50 BELOW ZERO IN ALASKA CITY FOR 5 DAYS

Warm Breezes Finally Break Cold Spell at Fairbanks; 74 Below at Nearby Dunbar.

FAIRBANKS, Alaska, Jan. 12 (AP)—Fairbanks was basking in a comparative "heat wave" today after warm breezes from the Pacific ended a cold spell that had sent the mercury tumbling to as low as 56 degrees below zero.

The thermometer edged up to zero yeserday at this interior Alaskan city just as a severe shortage of fresh food was developing. For five days the temperature was more than 50 degreen below zero. Some stores ran out of eggs, milk and fresh produce.

The temperature in nearby Dunbar dipped to 74 degrees below zero.

Planes which managed to reach here each day carried little more than passengers and mail. They had to take off almost immediately to prevent the engines from getting cold.

Money Blossoms in Flower Beds In Jackson, Miss.; $930 'Picked'

JACKSON, Miss., Jan. 12 (AP)—Folks in the 700 block of South Congress street were out early today among their hydrangeas, camellias and azaleas looking for more of that soggy old money they've been finding lying around.

Some Jackson folks never had it so good as they did yesterday, when $930 was picked up, free as you please in no time at all.

Mrs. Valentine, the wife of the Rev. W. S. Valentine, plucked a soggy $100 bill from an alley next door to her home yesterday morning.

The Rev. Mr. Valentine turned out quickly and under the house next door he snared another $100 bill. His pansy bed was littered with dirty, wrinkled $50 bills.

The Valentines soon had competition. A drainage ditch produced $70 for another searcher, and an investigating police officer picked up $150.

Taxicab driver Junior Clark said he could explain it all. He said one of his fares tossed $4000 out of the taxicab window Wednesday night because the rider "thought he was being taken for a ride" and threw his money where the imaginary "robbers" couldn't get it. On orders from the rider, Clark drove him all the way to Hot Springs, Ark.

To play safe, in case Clark's rider shows up and proves he threw his money away, most of the $930 has been itemized and turned over to the Rev. Mr. Valentine for safe keeping until things get squared away.

M'GRATH SAYS HE HAS NO SPECIFIC TRUMAN ORDERS ON CLEAN-UP DRIVE

Attorney General Adds That He Will Discuss Campaign With J. Edgar Hoover Early Next Week.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12 (UP)—Attorney General J. Howard McGrath says that President Truman has given him no specific instructions for ridding the Administration of corruption and wrongdoers.

He adds, however, that he will discuss the clean-up drive with J. Edgar Hoover, head of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, early next week, indicating that no action would be taken at least until then.

McGrath made the "no instructions" statement in reply to questions by reporters as he left the regular cabinet meeting at the White House yesterday.

The meeting with Hoover was discussed later by a Department of Justice spokesman who said he had been authorized to make the news public in response to inquiries about the status of the clean-up drive.

The spokesman said McGrath will "have nothing further to say on this matter until he has had an opportunity to confer with Mr. J. Edgar Hoover, director of the FBI, the early part of next week."

Francis Biddle Criticizes Naming of McGrath to Clean-Up.

The New York Herald Tribune-Post-Dispatch Special Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12—Francis Biddle, former attorney general, sharply criticized President Truman yesterday for dropping his plan for an independent commission to investigate government corruption and turning the job over to Attorney General J. Howard McGrath instead.

Speaking as national chairman of Americans for Democratic Action, a political group which has generally supported the Truman administration, Biddle branded the President's plans for a government house-cleaning as "in a word, inadequate."

He repeated his own and A.D.A.'s recommendation for the appointment of a bipartisan team of special prosecutors "to conduct a comprehensive investigation and initiate appropriate prosecutions" of wrongdoers in the Government.

He also proposed that the President immediately submit legislation to Congress to authorize appointment of such a team of special prosecutors and give them broad subpena and other powers. He noted that he would like to see someone like William J. (Wild Bill) Donovan, wartime head of the Office of Strategic Services, assigned to such a task.

Biddle frankly conceded that "friends of the Administration" are troubled over the possible political effect of the government scandals if "drastic action" is not taken to clean them up.

He emphasized that he did not mean to criticize McGrath or question the ability of the Department of Justice to investigate and prosecute wrongdoers, but said: "Public confidence in our Federal Government will not be restored by Democrats investigating Democrats nor will changes in administrative structure at this time effectively answer the public insistence on honest government."

'MR. X,' IN COMA FOR 9 YEARS, DIES; IDENTITY REVEALED

CINCINNATI, Jan. 12 (AP)—"Mr. X," who had been unconscious nine years, died last night.

For the first time his identity was disclosed. He was Robert Steger, 60 years old, of Lexington, Ky.

"Mr. X," as he has been known through all the years, was hurt in February 1943 when he was hit by an eight-pound pulley when working at the Wright Aeronautical Co. plant near here.

He was knocked unconscious. A blood clot formed on his brain and since that time he had been in a coma in a hospital here. His life was sustained by the feeding of pre-digested food. The hospital kept his identity secret at the request of his family.

SUFFERS BROKEN RIB AS FIRST-AID CLASS 'PATIENT'

A fireman who volunteered to serve as a "patient" in a first-aid demonstration suffered a broken rib when the instructor leaned too heavily on him while applying artificial respiration it was learned today.

The demonstration was for a class of firemen at Engine Company No. 6, 12 North Ninth street, Thursday. The victim was Fireman Harry J. Brown, 3911 North Ninth street, who was treated for the fractured rib at City Hospital.

Brown said that Instructor Charles Rake of Rescue Squad No. 1 apparently became too enthusiastic in applying pressure. He was lying face downward on a mat and Raake was kneeling and leaning over him when the rib was fractured.

NEW SOVIET ATOM CONTROL PROPOSAL

VISHINSKY CALLS FOR A-WEAPON BAR AND 'CONTINUING' SYSTEM OF CURBS

Assembly Adopts West's Anti-Aggression Program for Use of Regional Security Forces Anywhere.

By JOHN RODERICK

PARIS, Jan. 12 (AP)—Russia's Andrei Y. Vishinsky made in the United Nations today what he called a new proposal for atomic bomb control. It called for a simultaneous bar on atomic weapons and for international control of atomic energy on a "continuing basis." He called this a "tremendous and momentous step forward" and challenged the West to match his action.

Vishinsky also renewed his demands for urgent consideration of the Korea issue and called for an immediate cease-fire, with the opposing forces to withdraw from the thirty-eighth parallel in 10 days. He called for the withdrawal of all foreign forces and volunteers from Korea in three months.

The Soviet Union demanded in 1948 the conclusion of simultaneous conventions prohibiting the atomic weapons and setting up controls. That was rejected by the General Assembly at that time—but Vishinsky insisted today his proposal for simultaneous prohibition and control was completely new.

Move in Political Committee.

Vishinsky made his move in the 60-nation Political Committee after the General Assembly had adopted over his bitter objections a plan designed to meet the threat of aggression anywhere in the world through collective. The vote on the anti-aggression plan, which would empower the Assembly to call on regional military forces to help it put down aggression, was 51 to 5, with three abstentions.

The Assembly also voted 57 to 0 with two abstentions in favor of a high-level meeting of the U.N. Security Council on cold war issues when the time seems right.

Vishinsky offered his proposal in what he said was an attempt to meet the demands of the West. Ambassador Ernest A. Gross, for the United States, said his delegation would study it carefully.

Explains 'Continuing Control.'

Vishinsky, in a two-hour speech, explained more completely than ever before the meaning of "continuing control." Today was the first time he had reaffirmed these proposals in a major resolution and he apparently did it in response to repeated Western refusals to accept prohibition without control.

He said the Russians want to reach agreement on the atomic issue and so "were removing the last obstacles to agreement."

He repeated his previous demands for a world disarmament conference, but suggested the date be pushed back from June 1, 1952, to July 15, 1952. Yesterday the Assembly created a West-backed disarmament commission and instructed it to begin work quickly on proposals to regulate, limit and balance reduction of all armed forces in the world.

One apparent concession today was Vishinsky's acceptance of the name of the new disarmament commission as created by the U.N. instead of the long name he favored—a Commission for Atomic Energy and Conventional Armaments. These were the modifications he promised last night, when he said he hoped for their approval.

Vishinsky's Rewording.

"We want to propose," said Vishinsky, "that our previous proposals be re-worded as follows: 'The General Assembly proclaims the unconditional prohibition of atomic weapons and the establishment of strict international control over the enforcement of this prohibition, having in mind that prohibition and control shall enter into operation simultaneously.'"

Vishinsky also carried on a post-mortem battle against the western-backed anti-aggression plan adopted this morning. He

GROUND FIRE DESTROYS 13; 12 MIGS ARE SHOT DOWN

Losses for Seven Days Far Above Recent Average of 10—On Increase Since Ground War Slowed.

By GEORGE McARTHUR

SEOUL, Korea, Jan. 12 (AP)—The Reds knocked down three Sabre jets in air combat and blasted 13 other United Nations planes out of the North Korean skies with ground fire in the week ended Friday. It was the costliest seven-day period for U.N. air forces since the war began.

The Allied planes shot down by ground fire were four Shooting Star jets, four Mustangs, three Thunderjets, one B-26 light bomber, and one Marine Corsair fighter.

The Fifth Air Force said U.N. jets in the same period shot down 12 Russian-made MIG-15s and damaged 14 in aerial battles. Red planes have not yet ventured within range of U.N. ground fire.

The 16-plane loss was far above the recent weekly average of about 10 planes lost to Red planes and ground fire. The weekly average since last spring has been about seven planes lost, an Air Force spokesman said.

Losses have been gradually increasing since the ground war slowed down and United Nations offensive action was shifted to the Air Force.

Far East Air Forces, in its weekly summary Saturday, gave these figures of Communist jet losses since the war began: 201 destroyed, 51 probably destroyed and 325 damaged.

Figures for Red aircraft of all types were: 336 destroyed, 100 probably destroyed and 380 damaged. The Air Force said the figures were subject to re-evaluation and change.

U.N. plane losses from all causes exceed 900. The Air Force said in Washington that Air Force, U.N. and Marine shore-based aviation units have lost approximately 400 planes of all types. The Navy reported that 532 Navy and carrier based Marine planes were lost through Oct. 1.

The Navy said its losses included 215 from enemy action. The Air Force gave no similar breakdown.

United States Sabre pilots sighted 200 MIGs today but only about half ventured across the Yalu boundary between Manchuria and Korea. Three brief jet fights took place but no damage claims were made by the United States pilots.

Yesterday the Reds put 280 planes in the air and five of them were shot down.

Last night a full moon allowed Communist truck drivers to travel without their lights. As a result night-flying U.N. pilots spotted an "abnormally low" number of trucks, the Air Force said. Pilots claimed destruction of 33 of the 260 vehicles they attacked.

During the night fighters and light bombers attacked Red rail lines. B-29 Superforts flew front line close-support missions and bombed the Communist rail yards at Sinanju in northwest Korea.

MOVE TO COMBAT CHINESE INVASION IN SOUTHEAST ASIA VEILED IN SECRECY

Pacific Nations Said to Have Considered Closer Liaison, Air and Naval Assistance in Event of Attack.

By C. YATES McDANIEL

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12 (AP)—The military chiefs of the major Pacific nations have completed consideration of specific measures to head off a threatened Chinese Red invasion of Indochina.

What these steps are for meeting the growing Red threat to Southeast Asia is veiled in secrecy.

Gen. Omar Bradley, who presided over the military meetings, urged the conferees to such strict secrecy that their one-day session yesterday closed with neither a communique nor comment from the participants.

The military leaders are known in informed official quarters to have reached basic understanding on some recommendations. Only their political superiors can translate these into specific measures requested by President Truman and British Prime Minister Churchill in their talks here this week.

Reported Recommendations.

The communique issued after the Churchill-Truman talks stated the purpose of the conference, attended by the staff chiefs of Britain, France and the United States and observers from Australia, New Zealand and Canada.

The informants said the recommendations considered followed these general lines:

1. All the free nations with stakes in southeast Asia should give prompt and whole-hearted support to any French appeal to the United Nations in the event Red China moves directly into the Indochina strife which it has supported and kept stirred up for several years.

2. Consideration should be given to the rendering of air and naval assistance in the event of an open invasion. The United States chiefs, in particular, have fought shy of suggesting any American commitment to send ground troops into Indochina short of a decision to risk a general war in Asia.

3. The democratic powers should avoid giving Red China any pretext for direct intervention in southeast Asia, certainly until after a truce and the framework for an over-all settlement is established in Korea.

Closer Liaison Suggested.

4. Closer liaison should be established between the political and military authorities of the various nations and controlling powers in southeast Asia, looking toward the eventual formation of an Allied high command in that area if the threat continued.

5. The fullest utilization of such machinery as is expected to evolve from the United States security pacts (now before the Senate for ratification) with Australia, New Zealand and the Philippines.

6. Indochina must continue to get a high priority of arms from the United States. Observers there have reported that the French and their loyal local forces now have about as many weapons as they can use effectively. A recent increase in Red Chinese arms aid for the rebels might change that situation rapidly.

Death of Gen. De Lattre.

Gloom was cast on the deliberations by the death of Gen. Jean de Lattre de Tassigny, on whom France and its friends had pinned hopes for victory and security in Indochina. He died in a Paris hospital just after his French colleague, Gen. Alphonse Juin laid down the problem of Indochina.

Gen. Juin's task was rendered even more difficult by the recent fall of the govenment which sent him from France to gain the ear and military assurances of Britain and the United States.

The French are accustomed to going without governments or having them changed repeatedly, but until De Lattre's illness France had not had to consider replacing that 61-year-old statesman-general whom Gen. Bradley characterized as the savior of Indochina.

France has experienced generals to take over the purely military job of fighting the Reds in Indochina. French officials said, however, that they will be hard pressed to find a replacement who can inherit the confidence that De Lattre's energetic personality inspired among the people of Indochina.

VICIOUS RED WOLF, THE NON-WHISTLING KNID, CAUGHT IN CITY

A wolf was captured yesterday afternoon in a yard behind the Weber Implement Co., 4035 Lindell boulevard.

William Thomas, car washer, was cleaning a car in the yard when he saw the animal approach. He said he thought it was a German shepherd dog, and he ran at it to chase it out of the yard. The animal charged Thomas, a Negro, who turned and fled to safety atop the automobile which he had been washing.

He called for help, but no one volunteered to come to his rescue. However, the Humane Society of Missouri was called, and Sgt. Lee J. Potter and Officer James Bradshaw of the society cornered the animal under a platform.

They captured it with two long poles which had nooses attached to them. Potter said the animal was vicious and bit a piece out of his trousers but missed his leg. It was identified by wildlige authorities as a Missouri red wolf.

WOMAN ACCUSED OF HANGING BOYS BY THUMBS CONVICTED

DETROIT, Jan. 12 (UP)—Mrs. Ethel Lashbrook, accused of hanging her 10-year-old son and another boy by their thumbs to make them confess stealing $20 from her purse, was found guilty of cruelty to children by a recorder's court jury yesterday.

The thrice-married, 30-year-old mother admitted using cruel forms of punishment against her five children, but denied a charge that she offered to let a Plymouth (Mich.) couple adopt two of her small sons in exchange for a $10,500 home loan.

She will be sentenced on the cruelty conviction Jan. 25. The maximum penalty is four years in prison.

18-INCH SNOW HITS RENO, MANY MAROONED IN HOMES

RENO, Nev., Jan. 12 (AP)—The worst snowstorm since 1937 hit Reno today. Eighteen inches of snow had fallen in downtown Reno this morning.

All available equipment owned by the city and private contractors was being used to clear the streets. More than 100 men toiled at the job. Highways were blocked and all plane flights were canceled.

Many residents were snowbound in their homes.

FLOATING DEBRIS FOUND IN SEARCH FOR MISSING SHIP

Discovery Narrows Area Being Combed by Planes and Vessels—Seas Subsiding.

SEATTLE, Jan. 12 (AP)—Spurred by the finding of debris and floating cargo, air and sea searchers pointed today toward a smaller area southeast of the spot where the freighter Pennsylvania and its 45-man crew last were heard from Wednesday.

The floating material, sighted by both aircraft and surface vessels, was found in a region 24 to 34 miles south and southeast of the last known position of the disabled ship, Yokohoma-bound from Seattle.

It included a hatch cover, lumber and plates, boxes, drums and an oil slick. The material was seen just before dark yesterday from the Canadian weather ship Stonetown and from a cruising Coast Guard plane.

It resulted in immediate change of plans, cutting down the search area from the 10,800 square miles covered yesterday to a 60 by 60 mile (3600 square miles) area today.

Search planes converged over the region at daybreak, dividing the sector into three sections. They were to sweep the area for three hours, then give way to other planes.

Six ships already are cruising in that region in the widespread search.

Moderating seas and warmer weather were seen as major help in the task of finding the crewmen who took to their lifeboats Wednesday evening after cracks appeared in the ship in the midst of a 40-mile blow and it began taking water.

Coast Guard officials said the location of the material was almost exactly where it normally would drift from the position radioed by the freighter just before capt. George P. Plover and his men reported they were abandoning the ship. The spot was about 465 miles northwest of Canada's Vancouver Island.

37-TON, RED-HOT STEEL INGOT SHIPPED 800 MILES BY RAIL

Metal From Montreal Would Be Forged in Nova Scotia Without Costly Reheating.

MONTREAL, Jan. 12 (AP)—A 37-ton steel ingot heated to 3000 degrees was shipped on a railway flat car here last night for the steel mill at Trenton, N.S., 800 miles away. The red-hot ingot, packed in a specially lined steel container, is expected to arrive in Trenton in 24 hours.

Officials say it will arrive in condition to be forged without costly reheating. If the experiment is successful other similar shipments will be made.

Ton of Beans for Soup Sent Free, But Congressmen Lack Ham Hocks

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12 (UP)—A drive to roll back the price of Congressmen's bean soup threatened to collapse today for lack of free ham hocks.

Representative Steed (Dem.), Oklahoma, said maybe it's just as well.

"My wife wants me to diet and a lot of other members are getting too fat, too," he said.

Michigan bean growers started the price-cutting drive after Steed complained that the House restaurant had reduced servings of its 25-cent bean soup by using new-style bowls. Sympathetic to the plight of $12,500-a-year Congressmen, the bean growers shipped a free ton of choice beans to Washington.

House Restaurant Manager William A. Brockwell said he couldn't afford to cut the price of bean soup unless he got some free ham hocks, too. No free ham hocks are in sight.

Steed said he was sorry he ever brought up the subject.

"I'm getting mail from people who say it would suit them fine if all members of Congress starved to death," he sighed.

Man, 101, Divorces Wife 86.

HOBART, Okla., Jan. 12 (AP)—S. A. Foote, 101 years old, obtained a divorce yesterday. His wife, Nannie, is about 86. The couple had been married five years. His attorney, J. Percy Hughes, said they got along fine until some of their children, by former marriages, came to live with them.

BELIEF EXPRESSED U.N. MIGHT ACCEPT RED ORAL PLEDGE ON AIRFIELD ISSUE

Allies Again Fail to Get Satisfactory Reply at Truce Talks — Wrangling Over Prisoners Continues.

By OLEN CLEMENTS.

MUNSAN, Korea, Jan. 12 (AP)—United Nations command truce negotiators asked the Communists again today for a clear statement of their present stand on construction of North Korean airfields during an armistice. Again they got no satisfactory reply.

Some observers felt the U.N. command might now be willing to settle for less than a formal bar on military airfield construction. They believed Maj. Gen. Howard M. Turner in effect is asking the Reds for an oral pledge not to build or repair airfields while an armistice is in force. Such a promise would become part of the conference record, but not of the armistice agreement itself.

Final Obstacle.

An oral pledge not to build or repair military bases, if accepted by the Allies, would eliminate the final obstacle barring agreement on how to supervise a truce. This single issue has deadlocked the armistice talks for two weeks.

The subcommittee discussing prisoner exchange spent most of the day wrangling over whether war prisoners and civilians should be allowed to refuse repatriation. The Allies insist on freedom of choice, the Reds want all prisoners exchanged.

Both subcommittees scheduled sessions tomorrow in Panmunjom.

Washington sources said Friday that nations fighting under the U.N. flag in Korea have agreed substantially to an American plan to back up a truce with a warning that if the agreement is broken the Chinese mainland will become the target of sea and air attacks.

Such a warning might make a formal, written agreement to bar airfield construction less important to the Allies.

U.N. Position Clear.

Gen. Turner told the Reds Saturday the U.N. made clear its position on airfield construction as late as Jan. 6 and added:

"Your refusal to do so thus deliberately is cloaking in confusion your attitude toward the single remaining issue before us.

"We can only conclude your side is uncertain regarding the position regarding airfields. I would like to have expressed by you your present intent."

Brig. Gen. William P. Nuckols, official U.N. spokesman, said Turner emphasized the word "present" in asking for the Communist stand on airfields.

Chinese Maj. Gen. Hsieh Fang replied, as usual, that the question of whether to build or not to build airfields is for North Korea to decide—an internal matter.

R. Adm. R. E. Libby said U.N. delegates on the prisoner exchange subcommittee "spent the day in trying to pin them (the Reds) down in an explanation about their inconsistencies in repudiating the doctrine of free choice."

The Allies have said the Reds championed free choice in announcing that thousands of South Koreans willingly joined the Communist armies following capture, but repudiated freedom of choice in demanding "enforced repatriation" of prisoners.

Purpose of Attack Threat.

Government sources in Washington said the United States plan to threaten an attack on the Chinese mainland is designed solely to provide maximum assurance that a truce would not be broken by the Communists.

They emphasized there is no intention of handing the Reds an ultimatum threatening an attack if they do not come to terms soon on an armistice. These officials said the United States and its allies are determined to negotiate an armistice at Panmunjom if possible.

United States authorities believe once a truce is signed—if it is insured by a warning of attack—U.N. forces could be pulled out of Korea as rapidly as Korean troops are trained and equipped to take over the job of security.

Most informants apparently believe that if the Reds sign an armistice they will abide by its terms. U.N. authorities are said to be hopeful that the Chinese would be motivated by good faith and a recognition that the war in Korea was not profitable to them.

Carlsen Hailed by Enthusiastic Throng

Capt. Carlsen Turns Down Offers Up to $112,000 for Movie Rights

Master of Sunken Flying Enterprise Wants Only Two Things: To Return to Family and Get Another Ship.

FALMOUTH, England, Jan. 12 (AP)—Kurt Carlsen, the shy little sea captain, turned down today the glamour of Hollywood and its money—offered for rights to his story of courage and endurance aboard his ship, Flying Enterprise.

Firmly, the 37-year-old skipper said nobody was going to buy him away from the sea.

Carlsen said he just isn't interested in offers totaling between 30,000 and 40,000 pounds ($84,000 to $112,000) which already have been made for the film and story rights on his 13-day struggle with the sea aboard his storm-wrecked freighter, which sank 37 miles out in the Atlantic Thursday.

"Act of God."

He came back to Falmouth today from a nearby hamlet, where he rested, to make an official report to shipping agents on the loss of the Flying Enterprise. He made an affidavit in which he swore that the sinking was an "act of God," in other words, unavoidable.

Now, he said, he wants only two things—to get back to his wife and two daughters in Woodbridge, N.J., "and then get another ship."

Following his welcome yesterday, Carlsen took refuge in a secluded hotel to rest. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Carlsen who flew from Denmark to welcome him in a rare reunion, stayed with him. He slept until after 10 a.m., resting from his ordeal.

Carlsen strolled out into bright sunshine this morning to find the sea, which had smashed his sturdy ship, calm at last.

"Is that really the sun?" he was heard to say. "I haven't seen the sun for such a long time. It really feels good."

His reappearance in town touched off another tumultous demonstration by a crowd of about 300 admirers.

Talks With Wife.

(At Perth Amboy, N.J., relatives said Carlsen had talked to his wife by telephone.

("It gave her a tremendous boost," a cousin said. "The strain was too much but she's going to be like her old self again.")

Hans Isbrandtsen, head of the Isbrandtsen Lines which owned the Flying Enterprise, already has said Carlsen will get a new command.

Isbrandtsen collected insurance totaling $800,000 yesterday from American marine insurers. The rest of the $1,200,000 insurance on the ship was reported held by British firms.

Isbrandtsen said it would cost more than $5,000,000 to build another Flying Enterprise.

The payments did not include insurance on the 2650 tons of cargo in the 6711-ton ship. Insurance on cargoes usually is left to the shippers, who make their own arrangements.

Carlsen may spend a day or two in London on business before he goes home to see his boss and his family.

The Danish Club in London is planning a reception Monday for the Danish-born mariner, but it was not certain whether he still will be in England at that time.

(New York is planning a ticker tape welcome for Carlsen on Wednesday, the city's reception committee said today. Information there was that he would arrive Wednesday morning by plane.)

Many a landlubber, unfamiliar with ships' gear, still wondered how Carlsen, aided by only one man, managed to handle the five-inch steel towline by which the salvage tug Turmoil pulled the Flying Enterprise from 320 miles at sea almost within sight of Falmouth harbor's safety.

Helped by Tug Mate.

Carlsen was helped by Kenneth Dancy, 27-year-old first mate of the Turmoil who leaped aboard his ship six days before it sank.

The skipper, explaining how the heavy tow line was fastened, told reporters:

"A relatively light heaving line was thrown from the Turmoil and we caught it aboard the Enterprise. One end of it, of course, was secured on the Turmoil.

"We passed the line around a bollard (metal post on deck) and threw the loose end of it back to the Turmoil. Then all the Turmoil had to do was attach the five-inch wire towing line to the end of the heaving line and with winches drag it around the bollard on the deck of the Enterprise."

The winches did the pulling. The end of the tow line was fastened in a loop and all Carlsen and Dancy had to do was guide it over the towing bitt and let it down.

The steel cable, sawed repeatedly on the edge of the hull by the ship's veering, finally parted in a rising gale.

A new one couldn't be fastened because of the storm which drove the drifting ship to its death.

BRITISH FEAR IRAN'S PREMIER SEEKS TO BREAK RELATIONS

LONDON, Jan. 12 (AP)—British officials speculated today that Iran's Premier Mohammed Mossadegh may be trying to break diplomatic relations with Britain to divert some of the political fire he is under at home.

This comment came after an extraordinary exhibition of diplomatic juggling in Tehran, where both British and Iranian officials refused to accept formal communications from each others' governments.

Officials here say they believe Mossadegh is seeking some sort of diplomatic crisis to rally support for his nationalistic leadership. The aged leader has been criticized in Iran's Parliament for such things as the Government's monetary troubles following nationalization of the Anglo-Iranian Oil Co., and for speeding up the holding of national elections. A no-confidence motion challenging his policies is due for debate in Parliament Jan. 22.

A newspaper report said four persons were killed and more than 20 injured in an election fight Thursday at Semnan, about 100 miles east of Tehran. Troops was reported rushed from Tehran to restore order.

Parliamentary elections, a long process in Iran, were started Dec. 18.

COSTELLO HEARING BEFORE CAMERAS UPHELD BY COURT

nature as to invoke a claim of privilege.

"The defendant claimed privilege when they were asked, and tenaciously clung to that claim," Wolf said. "The evidence is overwhelming he acted in good faith and had every reason to believe his answers would incriminate him. He cannot waive his constitutional rights by stipulation."

Agreement Pointed Out.

Government counsel replied that Costello had replied to certain questions concerning his assets and by law was required to reply to them all without the protection of constitutional privilege at any stage of the questioning. It was pointed out the defendant had agreed to supply a statement of his net worth.

By estimating his liabilities at $30,000 the underworld figure had waived his claim to immunity, it was said, and had compounded the act when he listed his legitimate and illegal businesses for the committee. These statements were accepted as true, the Government spokesman added.

"If they were true," the prosecutor continued, "the witness had no reason to fear prosecution from his additional answers. Constitutional privilege is not a license for perjury. It must not be used as a subterfuge. The witness must have a reasonable basis to assert it.

"Costello well knew the committee held his income tax returns for the last 10 years. No fraud had been charged nor implied. He could not therefore, have feared prosecution for income tax violations. He could not have incriminated himself as his statements were accepted as truth."

"Slip" by Costello.

Wolf maintained that Costello's estimate of his liabilities at $30,000 was a "slip" which he had meant later to correct. Actually it referred to earlier testimony in which he was discussing a transaction with Frank Erickson, convicted "king of the bookmakers," Wolff said.

If Costello is found guilty of contempt, maximum punishment is limited to one year in prison and $1000 fine on each of the 11 counts.

The opening statement by the attorney for the former bootlegger, indicated the defense would seek to prove to the jury that Costello was deceived into appearing before the Senate committee by the promise of its representatives that he would be afforded the opportunity to exonerate himself of "vile accusations" that he was a hoodlum on a national scale.

Shortly after he made "frank and open testimony" at February closed hearings conducted by the Kefauver investigators, the committee issued an interim report castigating Costello as an "underworld leader." That was sufficient, Wolf argued today, to cause the hoodlum to suspect that some of his answers during the March open hearings would be used to prosecute him for something or other.

5 CZECHS DOOMED AS U.S. SPIES; 3 GET LIFE TERMS

VIENNA, Jan. 12 (UP)—Five Czechoslovaks were sentenced to death and three to life imprisonment today on the charges of high treason, terrorism and espionage for the United States, the official Prague radio said.

The trial was the latest in a series in Soviet satellite countries since the United States enacted its Mutual Security Act which Russia complains aims at subversion in Iron Curtain countries.

The eight persons were alleged to have been trained in Western Germany and Austria by the United States Counter-Intelligence Corps. They were then sent back into Czechoslovakia to organize spy networks, it was further alleged.

Prague said Jan Hosek, Emanuel Rendel, Jaroslav Dvorak, Josef Liska and Petr Cizek were sentenced to death. Frantisek Kroc, Robert Sunderhauf and Frantisek Dolinek were sentenced to life imprisonment.

Spellman Off to New Delhi.

CALCUTTA, Jan. 12 (UP)—Cardinal Francis Spellman, Roman Catholic archbishop of New York, left for New Delhi today. He plans to fly to Beirut, Lebanon, Tuesday on his way home from Korea.

TWO EX-OFFICIALS GET PRISON TERMS IN ANTI-TITO PLOT

BELGRADE, Jan. 12 (AP) — Five Yugoslavs, two of them former high government officials, pleaded guilty to plotting the overthrow of Premier Marshall Josip (Tito) Broz's government and were sentenced to prison yesterday.

Borba, organ of Tito's government, said all five were acting for the Soviet-led Cominform which ousted Communist Yugoslavia in June 1948 because it refused to follow Russian policies.

Vojislav Srzentic, former deputy economic planner, got a 15-year sentence from the district court. He was said to have passed the Soviet Union information on Yugoslav negotiations for United States economic and military aid.

His wife, Dragica, one-time foreign ministry official who decided on appointment of officials to other countries, was given a 10-year sentence.

Milka Zicina, one of the country's best known woman authors, was sentenced to eight years. Two others were sentenced to seven and nine-year terms.

$2,000,000 IN PAPER BURNS

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Jan. 12 (AP)—A small oil stove exploded at the South Dixie warehouse last night, starting a fire which destroyed $2,000,000 worth of fine printing paper.

Damage to the warehouse, a subsidiary of the Dixie Cartage Co., was estimated at $125,000. The paper was owned by the C. T. Dearing Printing Co. W. A. Torsch, warehouse general manager, said the stove exploded near a loading platform. The spilled oil caught fire and flowed into the warehouse.

SUPPORTERS GET DRIVE UNDER WAY FOR EISENHOWER

Entries 'Favorable' to Him Filed in New Hampshire Primary — Taft Backers in Action.

MANCHESTER, N.H., Jan. 12 (AP)—Supporters of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower for the Republican nomination for the presidency got the general's campaign officially under way today. Eisenhower boosters, led by Gov. Sherman Adams, filed entries listed as "favorable" to him in the New Hampshire primary.

Attorney Wesley Powell, an admitted Eisenhower opponent, hinted that he and others are trying to get Senator Robert A. Taft (Rep.), Ohio, to oppose Eisenhower in the New Hampshire primary.

Powell, former staff aid to Senator Bridges (Rep.), New Hampshire, and later a Republican candidate against Senator Tobey in 1950, said he had discussed this with Taft.

Parley With Taft Managers.

He said Taft managers, including John D. M. Hamilton, former Republican national chairman, would confer with New Hampshire Republicans this weekend before making a decision.

At Concord, Louis C. Wyman, attorney and also a former staff aid to Senator Bridges, showed up to file as a delegate favorable to Taft but delayed, saying he thinks he can get permission to file "pledged" for Taft early next week.

Senator Mundt (Rep.), South Dakota, meanwhile said Gen. Eisenhower "has a duty to make his position clear on major issues and I think he will do it."

"There are a hundred ways in which the General could do this without violating Army regulations," Mundt said.

Eisenhower in announcing that he is a Republican and would accept but not seek the presidential nomination, indicated he would have nothing more to say while remaining in uniform as commander of the Western European armed forces.

Expects Liberal Interpretation.

Mundt said President Truman's remarks about Eisenhower this week indicate there would be a liberal interpretation of Army regulations applying to him.

"I suspect the White House won't want to pull another MacArthur—they can't afford another martyr," Mundt said.

This was a reference to the sudden dismissal of Gen. Douglas MacArthur from his Pacific commands last year by President Truman which touched off a nation-wide controversy.

Meanwhile, James D. McPhail of Manchester, N.H., became the first man in the country to file as a candidate favorable to President Truman.

On the Democratic side, there were new indications Senator Kefauver (Dem.), Tennessee, will seek his party's nomination, although he has made no formal announcement.

Developments in Illinois.

There were Kefauver developments in Illinois, Ohio and New Hampshire. In each state indications were strong that delegates pledged to him would be entered in primaries.

Probably the most emphatic Kefauver development was a definite statement by Herbert L. Lockwood, co-chairman of the Illinois Kefauver-for-President club, that Kefauver "will seek the nomination." He said the Senator had told him by telephone that he is elated and was optimistic of carrying Illinois."

In New York, Kefauver himself was silent as to his plans. He announced he would see President Truman Tuesday. He would not say what the purpose of his call at the White House was, but it was understood it related to "political matters."

JAPAN REPORTED WORKING ON FRIENDSHIP PACT WITH CHIANG

TOKYO, Jan. 12 (AP) — Japan may soon sign a treaty of friendship with Nationalist China, Kyodo news agency said today. It quoted Government informants as saying Prime Minister Shigeru Yoshida's cabinet was working on the friendship treaty. It gave no details.

Yoshida intimated Japan would favor the government of Chiang Kai-shek over Communist China, at least for the time being, when he told a press conference earlier this week that Japan could not "keep company with Communist countries."

In Washington Friday, the State Department said Japan was free to decide whether to establish relations with the Nationalists or the Reds.

Gun for Atomic Shells May Use Conventional Propelling Charge

No Nuclear Explosive Needed to Throw Missile—Model Shown Congressmen Probably Not Too Radical in Design.

By ELTON C. FAY.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12 (AP)—The artillery gun for shooting atomic shells may be fired with a conventional propelling charge like any big-caliber gun. No nuclear explosive is needed to throw the missle at the target.

A major problem in the design of the weapon, a model of which was shown to the Joint Congressional Committee on Atomic Energy yesterday, probably has been to hold the weight of the gun down to a point where it is practical for battlefield use.

If the words used by Chairman McMahon (Dem.), Connecticut, of the committee were used advisedly, the new weapon appears to be a gun instead of a rocket-launching device. He described it, in talking to reporters, as an "artillery gun" designed to handle atomic shells.

Unusual Range Not Needed.

A weapon used tactically on a war front would not need unusual range, only enough to hit enemy troop positions, field fortifications or concentration points close behind the lines. The huge power of an atomic explosion thus would not be required to propel the atomic-charged shell from the gun.

Gen. J. Lawton Collins, Army chief of staff, said in a radio interview last month that artillery capable of firing atomic missiles has been tested. He said that didn't mean "it has been tested as an atomic weapon; it doesn't have to be."

That seemed to point pretty definitely toward the idea that the model which Congressmen saw yesterday, probably was not too radical in design, except perhaps for the bore and length of its tube.

While the packaged size of atomic explosives has been reduced considerably since the days of the Hiroshima atomic bomb, it is doubtful that the diameter of the package still could be fitted to standard existing weapons.

Biggest Mobile Gun Now Used.

The biggest mobile gun used by the Army is the 240-millimeter howitzer. That is a bore of slightly under 10 inches. A caliber of even double that size would create a hefty weapon for easy mobility on a battlefield, although not an impossible weight.

A 240-millimeter howitzer weighs 25,000 pounds, the carriage for moving it about 39,000 pounds. To double that bore might bring the complete weapon assembly up to a weight of approximately 80 tons. But 60-ton tanks are considered by some military men as practical for battlefield use.

The maximum effective range of a 240-millimeter howitzer is 25,255 yards (about 14 miles), ample to get the dangerous explosion area of an atomic burst well away from friendly troop positions.

A howitzer is a high-angle-of-fire weapon, the 240-mm. having an elevation of 65 degrees. Such a high angle could be of use for particular type of atomic bombardment where deep penetration of a shell might be needed to penetrate an underground fortification.

Use of Proximity Fuse.

Detonating the atomic shell over or at the target should have imposed no seriously critical problem. The standard proximity fuse (the electronic device which explodes a shell or bomb as it reaches a point above a selected target) would provide for the air burst effective for anti-personnel and general demolition purposes.

Because the propelling charge presumably would be non-atomic, with no nuclear explosion occurring at the gun location, there would be no problem of shielding for radiation. But the peculiar nature of atomic materials and weapons undoubtedly will create special handling and storage problems for the atomic artillery men.

Among other questions is the matter of whether final adjustment of the projectile's trigger mechanism will have to be made immediately preceding the firing. This will call for highly specialized technicians, in addition to the other specialized members of an atomic gun crew.

Beyond that will be the problem of field commanders to decide what situations call for atomic artillery instead of conventional explosive and, if used, whether it will require particular maneuvering of friendly forces to get through an area subjected to atomic blast and radiation.

NEW SOVIET ATOM CONTROL PLAN GIVEN TO U.N.

said the disarmament proposal and the collective measures plan already adopted never would come into force as long as fighting continued in Korea.

Denounces Armistice Proposal.

He denounced U.N. proposals for concluding an armistice in Korea and said emphatically that on-the-spot negotiators at Panmunjon have "made no progress at all."

He added that if the U.N. wants to see peace in Korea, it should adopt Russia's proposal that all foreign troops and foreign volunteers get out within three months of an armistice. The Soviet proposal is contained in a comprehensive "peace" program introduced by Vishinsky which appears certain to be defeated.

Vishinsky said that the insistence of U.N. negotiators that the North Koreans stop building or repairing airfields during the proposed armistice was "entirely unfair." He said the North Koreans needed to keep these fields so they could repel U.N. air attacks.

He suggested that the reason the talks have not been wound up was because it had been discovered that tungsten exists in North Korea.

Acheson's Basic Principle.

The anti-aggression resolution adopted today enacts the basic principles of a unity-for-peace proposal put forward by Secretary of State Dean Acheson.

It further strengthens the veto-free Assembly in meeting threats to peace, such as the Korean outbreak, when the Security Council finds itself hamstrung by the big-power veto, used most frequently by the Soviet Union.

The resolution would permit the U.N. to call on regional security forces, such as the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, to meet aggression anywhere.

Soviet Bloc Votes No.

Soviet bloc countries cast the five negative ballots. Argentina, India and Indonesia abstained.

The regional security resolution was submitted to the assembly by 11 of the 15 members of the Collective Measures Committee. That committee is under instructions to continue its work for another year.

United States Delegate Benjamin V. Cohen said the collective measures step "is a requisite in today's troubled world." He said he hoped the Soviet Union would eventually see it in the same light and "lend its active support to the work."

Vishinsky said Cohen's hope that Russia would go along with the collective measures plan demonstrated the "hypocrisy" of the United States.

He said the plan "assists and encourages preparations for a new war."

Mutual Security Act.

The assembly voted down yesterday a Russian demand that the U.N. call on the United States to repeal its Mutual Security Act.

The vote was five in favor—only the Soviet bloc supported the proposal—42 against and 11 abstaining. Two countries were absent.

Rep. Mansfield (Dem.), Montana, a U.N. delegate, said the attack on the measure was part of a Soviet plot to smash collective security and regional defense measures like the Atlantic Pact.

He denounced Russia's part in Hungary's treatment of four straying American flyers recently freed after the United States paid $120,000 in "fines."

Mansfield derided Soviet bloc claims that the Mutual Security Act interfered with Soviet or satellite sovereignty.

Russia charges that a $100,000,000 fund in the Mutual Security Act appropriation for assistance to Iron Curtain refugees constitutes such interference.

In Political Committee No. 2, meanwhile, Israel proposed that the present Palestine Conciliation Commission be reconstituted as a good offices commission with the same membership.

KODIAK, Alaska, Jan. 12 (UP)—A fire at the Navy base here Wednesday caused $1,500,000 damage, Maj. James K. Bruan, Alaskan command public information officer, said today.

The fire destroyed a beauty shop, officers' club, chief petty officers' club and the only theater at the base. Firemen saved the base commissary and an adjacent building.

BRITISH BATTLE GUERRILLAS NEAR SUEZ RAIL STATION

Troops Searching for Mines Fired On — Reinforcements Rushed to Scene.

CAIRO, Jan. 12 (UP)—British troops reinforced by a company of Coldstream Guards and by four Centurion tanks battled Egyptian guerrillas today near a Suez Canal zone railway station.

The fighting broke out just as a mine exploded on the railway tracks nearby and wounded two British soldiers. They were among troops who had been searching for miners.

Simultaneously, automatic weapon and rifle fire was directed at the troops from several points near the Tel El Kebir station.

Troops of the Scottish Cameron Highlanders battled the guerrillas. Bullets whipped across the railroad yards and into the station. The Highlanders later were reinforced by the Guards company. Fighting continued all morning and into the afternoon.

(The Associated Press reported one Cameron Highlander was killed.)

As the fighting progressed, the British moved in the tanks to spearhead action by two companies of Coldstream Guards. Two Egyptians were reported captured.

According to reports reaching British canal zone headquarters, the guards also were dug in on the southern bank of the Sweetwater canal, ready to open fire with "heavier weapons."

The brigadier commanding the guards unit rushed to the scene. He was not immediately identified.

Other Egyptians were said to have fired on a British Royal Air Force convoy forming at the village of Abu Seir. One driver was wounded slightly. A paratroop company was sent to search the house from which the fire came.

The British, meanwhile, made another pre-dawn raid on a village in the Abu Seir area in search of snipers.

Sources in Cairo reported that Abdel Fattah Amr Pasha, recalled as Egyptian ambassador to Britain to become King Farouk's foreign affairs adviser, may go to the United States on a "special mission." There were no details of the purpose of such a mission.

EQUIPMENT SHORT, ARMY RESERVES TO TRAIN AS INFANTRY

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12 (AP)—The Army has decided to train all its 25 Reserve Corps divisions as infantry because of a lack of training facilities and equipment for airborne and armored troops. This will mean converting four divisions that now are airborne and three that are armored.

The decision was announced yesterday following a conference here of all top reserve commanders. The switchover is expected to be completed in time to permit the reserve units to prepare for their 15-day field summer training.

The airborne reserve divisions to be revamped are the Eightieth in Virginia, Maryland and the District of Columbia, the Eighty-fourth in Wisconsin and Michigan, the 100th in Kentucky and West Virginia and the 108th in Georgia and North Carolina.

The armored divisions to be made infantry are the Thirteenth in California, Oregon and Arizona, the Twenty-first in Michigan and Illinois and the Twenty-second in Texas and Oklahoma.

DEMOCRATS JAM SPRINGFIELD FOR RALLY OPENING STATE CAMPAIGN

Office-Seekers Wooing Leaders — Speculation on Smith and Slaughter — Hennings Speaks at Dinner Tonight.

By HERBERT A. TRASK
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., Jan. 12—Several thousand Missouri Democrats gathered here today for the annual Jackson day rally, unofficially opening the party's 1952 state campaign.

Interest was running high for the coming presidential election year races. With the offices of United States senator, governor and other top state jobs at stake, many avowed primary candidates, and many more potential office seekers are on hand to woo party leaders for their support.

After a day-long round of handshaking and conferences in hotel lobbies and rooms, the festivities will come to a close tonight with a $3-a-plate turkey dinner.

The principal speaker will be United States Senator Thomas C. Hennings Jr. of St. Louis.

Smith Continues Silence.

With most of the expected candidates for high offices already in the races, speculation centered largely around the unannounced political plans of Gov. Forrest Smith and a possible new contender, former Congressman Roger C. Slaughter of Kansas City, who is reported seeking a political comeback after having been purged in 1946 by President Truman.

Gov. Smith, who has been acting for a long time like he intended to get into the race for United States Senator, continued strangely silent on his plans when he arrived here late yesterday. He bluntly told reporters that he would make no political announcement during the meeting.

There have been reports that the governor had been surveying his chances recently, and the reports were not too good. A large number of his friends and state office appointees turned up here to help the governor if he had decided to announce his candidacy, but they say he has not confided in them about his plans.

Several pointed out that Smith has generally followed the practice of filing for public office on his birthday, Feb. 14. If he doesn't announce or file by that time this year, they said, it could be reasonably assumed he will not run.

Slaughter Undecided.

Former Congressman Slaughter was here to help friends send up a trial balloon for him as a possible candidate for the Democratic nomination for United States Senator.

When asked if he would get into the race, the Kansas City lawyer replied: "Many of my friends have urged me to run, but I don't know whether I will. I can't say any more now."

Slaughter, who mingled with the party leaders in the Colonial Hotel lobby last night like he was personally hopeful, gained national prominence six years ago when President Truman, irked by Slaughter's opposition to his program in Congress, caused his defeat in the primary by supporting the politically unknown Enos Axtell. Truman got rid of Slaughter, but in the general election Axtell was beaten by Republican Albert L. Reeves Jr.

Apparently Slaughter would count heavily on getting the support of the same Democratic groups that backed Senator Hennings in the St. Louisan's bitter primary battle against former State Senator Emery W. Allison of Rolla, who was Truman's handpicked candidate. The former Congressman was one of the few Democrats in Kansas City who actively supported Hennings in that contest.

Taylor and Boosters Present.

So far, Attorney General J. E. Taylor is the only announced candidate for the Democratic nomination for the Senate seat now held by Republican United States Senator James P. Kem of Kansas City. Taylor was an early arrival here yesterday, accompanied by a large group of his assistants who are actively supporting his candidacy.

The opposing candidates for the gubernatorial nomination, former Gov. Phil M. Donnelly of Lebanon and Congressman Phil J. Welch of St. Joseph, are expected for the festivities. Both have set up headquarters at the Colonial Hotel to entertain the party followers.

Several hundred St. Louis Democratic leaders and party workers reached Springfield last night and early today to participate in the campaign opening rally. Most of them came by railroad on four special cars provided for the junket. Because hotel rooms are unavailable, many of the St. Louisans remained overnight aboard Pullmans in the rail yards.

Among St. Louisans.

Among the group were Sheriff Tom Callanan, leader of the dominant St. Louis Democratic faction; Attorney Morris A. Shenker and Magistrate Anton Sestric, South Side party leader. State Senators David A. Hess, Edward J. Hogan and Harry J. Byrne were on the train, as were several Democratic labor leaders.

Congressman Welch is expected to get the backing of the Callanan group and AFL and CIO groups in his bid for the gubernatorial nomination. But indications around the lobbies here are that Donnelly has the strongest party organization backing in Kansas City and outstate areas.

Father's Blast at Truman Won't Keep Son Off Medal of Honor Roll

Former RFC Employe Called President Unworthy of Conferring Award.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12 (AP)—A young officer who died bravely in Korea will be enrolled as a winner of the Medal of Honor despite his father's objections that President Truman is unworthy to bestow it.

First Lt. Robert M. McGovern, 23 years old, was awarded the nation's highest military honor for "incredible valor," last Jan. 20, when he was killed in action. His 21-year-old brother, Second Lt. Jerome F. McGovern, fell 12 days later and posthumously won the Silver Star for "absolute fearlessness."

Halsey McGovern, 65, their father, rejected both medals. Showing his grief, McGovern told reporters here yesterday: "Accepting these medals would imply that I think Truman is worthy to coinfer those honors. And I don't think that fellow is worthy to confer honors on my boys or anyone's boys." McGovern, a former employe of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, now is self-employed as a traffic consultant here.

An Army spokesman said the son's name would go down on the honor scroll as a winner of the emblem. He said: "The medal was not awarded to the father. It was awarded to the son in death."

Officials said Truman, who has said many times he would rather have the Medal of Honor than be President, normally bestows the award on living medalists. A high-ranking officer makes presentation to next-of-kin in posthumous awards.

Brig. Gen. Frank Dorn, deputy chief of Army information, indicated he may confer with McGovern on other arrangements. Gen. Dorn said it was understandable that the father is overwrought.

Family friends said McGovern is strongly anti-Truman. A brother said McGovern blamed Truman's Far East policies for Korean fighting and felt men in combat lacked competent military support.

SISTER SUES BROTHER OVER KOENIG CONCERN

Mrs. T. C. Eggers Asks for Receiver for Family Holding Corporation.

The bitter quarrel between Edwin C. Koenig and his sister, Mrs. Theodore C. Eggers, over control of the $4,000,000 family holding corporation took a new turn late yesterday when Mrs. Eggers filed suit in circuit court requesting appointment of a receiver for the firm and an injunction to restrain Koenig from continuing as manager.

The suit was filed after Provisional Probate Judge Adolph Thym, acting on an information by Mrs. Eggers, had adjudged the 93-year-old Mrs. Lizzette Koenig incompetent. She is the mother of the contestants and the widow of Henry C. Koenig, founder of the Missouri Press Brick and Improvement Co., the family corporation. A guardian will be appointed Wednesday.

The litigation started three weeks ago when Koenig, veteran river man, sought an order to halt the probate court proceedings and asked the circuit court to declare invalid a 1905 transfer of corporation stock by the elder Koenig to his wife. He asked the court to uphold a 1927 assignment of stock, which gave 110 shares to Koenig and 90 shares to the Eggers family.

In yesterday's petition, Mrs. Eggers charged that her brother had usurped control of the corporation, a real estate development firm, and had excluded her from control. She alleged that Koenig had intermingled corporate and personal funds and asked for an accounting.

PHILIPPINES, JAPAN ON OWN IN WAR CLAIMS, DULLES SAYS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12 (AP)—Ambassador John Foster Dulles says Japan and the Philippines must carry on their own negotiations regarding war reparations claims and that the peace treaty provides for such independent talks.

Dulles made the comment last night in denying published reports in Manila quoting Dulles as assuring Prime Minister Yoshida the United States would give no support to damage claims against Japan provided the Japanese would support United States Far East policies.

WREN SUBPENAED IN DISPUTE OVER GAMBLING CASES

Called Before Grand Jury After Stormy Session With Acting Circuit Attorney.

Police Capt. Joseph A. Wren, head of the gambling squad, has been subpenaed to appear before the circuit court grand jury Tuesday because of his controversy with Edward L. Dowd, first assistant circuit attorney, over the handling of gambling cases, it was disclosed today.

Dowd said he handed Wren a subpena following a 20-minute argument yesterday in the circuit attorney's office. The stormy session was marked by shouts and desk-pounding.

Wren, obviously still angry, stalked from Dowd's office, carrying the subpena.

Dowd told a Post-Dispatch reporter: "Capt. Wren, to my knowledge, has never complained about me, but he has criticized the work of various courtroom assistants in this office.

"These complaints, made to outsiders, related chiefly to the dismissal of gambling cases on the docket in the circuit court.

"If Wren had a grievance, why didn't he bring it to me—to the proper forum? I would have told him the cases were dismissed with my approval. That was the only proper procedure since they wouldn't stand up in a court.

"Many of Wren's cases lack sufficient evidence for a conviction. The mere fact that he has made an arrest does not justify prosecution.

"We cannot prosecute on the basis of rumor or hearsay and we will not permit Capt. Wren to force us to do so."

Dowd, who has been in charge of the office during the illness of Circuit Attorney James W. Griffin, declared: "If Wren has something to say, he now has an opportunity to go before the grand jury to tell it under oath."

In one instance, Dowd related, Wren claimed to have a "clear-cut" case against a notorious handbook operator. The police captain said he had one of his men on the premises, watching operations, Dowd asserted, but this police officer, in Wren's presence, later denied he had observed any betting activities by the alleged operator.

CHURCHILL HONORS CANADA WAR DEAD, VISITS PARLIAMENT

OTTAWA, Jan. 12 (UP)—British Prime Minister Winston Churchill visited Canada's parliament buildings today and placed a wreath in the memorial chamber of the Peace Tower which commemorates the dead of two world wars.

He was accompanied by British High Commissioner Sir Alexander Clutterbuck and was greeted on the steps by Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent and Senator Wishart Robertson, government leader of the upper house.

Churchill looked rested after spending the night at Government House, official residence of Governor General Viscount Alexander.

The two Prime Ministers visited the parliamentary press gallery where President Paul A. Paradis presented Churchill with a gold honorary membership card.

"You pay me a high compliment," Churchill said. "I have been a journalist all my life—or all the time I have not been in office, which has been about half my life. I have made by living by selling words—and I hope some thoughts contained in them."

Afterward, Churchill had lunch with the commonwealth high commisioners stationed in Ottawa.

BRAKE SHOE STRIKE SETTLED

Employes of the Ramapo-Ajax division of American Brake Shoe Co., 301 South Main street, East St. Louis, will return to work Monday following settlement of an 11-week-old strike yesterday. About 65 members of the AFL International Association of Machinists went on strike Oct. 19.

Grievances included wages and working conditions, but neither company nor union spokesmen would discuss details of the settlement.

MAN FOUND HANGED IN HOME

The body of John J. Walsh, 62 years old, was found hanging yesterday in his living quarters at 3715 (rear) North Twentieth street.

Police said Walsh apparently stepped off a bucket after fastening a rope around his neck. Neighbors, who found the body, reported Walsh had told them he was about to be evicted. He was unemployed and was separated from his wife.

Palm Readers in Hands of Police Fail to Palm Off Shenker Opinion

When three women, dressed in gypsy garb, were arrested yesterday in downtown storerooms on fortune-telling charges, they quickly displayed a legal opinion signed by Morris Shenker, criminal attorney, that their activities did not constitute a law violation.

Arrested after Probationary Policewoman Floy Jones, Negro, obtained palm readings from each, the women said they were Mrs. Anna Miller, 5000 Easton avenue, arrested at 1524 Market street; Mrs. Ruby Williams of the same residence, picked up at 717 Pine street, and Mrs. Helen White, 5004 Easton, arrested at 111 North Eighteenth street.

In each case, Officer Jones reported, the women had on display books on astrology and palm reading for sale. With the sale of each book went an offer of a reading. However, after giving the reading, each women offered a "more complete" reading for an additional $2, Officer Jones said.

Police were interested but uninfluenced by Shenker's letter, which stated he had examined the laws of the state and city and had found the activities outlined by the women not in violation of the law. They were booked for appearances today in police court, where the cases were continued until Jan. 31.

THREE CHILDREN BURNED TO DEATH, FATHER ARRESTED

Mother of Victims Says Her Husband Made Threat to 'Burn Up' His Family.

Three children were burned to death early today in a fire, believed of incendiary origin, in a frame home at Bunker, Mo., 135 miles southwest of St. Louis.

The children's father, Jesse Willard Hill, 34-year-old timber worker, was arrested and held in the Reynolds county jail following discovery of the bodies, burned beyond recognition.

The dead children are Wanda Sue Hill, 5 years old; Alfred Willard Hill, 4, and Charles Ray, 1½.

Their mother, Georgia Marie Hill, 21, told state highway patrolmen her husband had run her out of their home last night after threatening to "burn up" his family.

She had taken the children for safety to a neighbor's home, which was the structure that burned. The bodies were found huddled together on a small iron cot.

Mrs. Hill was hiding from her husband behind a shed when the shack in which the children were sleeping caught fire. She said she heard a sound like that of a liquid being thrown on the structure shortly before the blaze broke out.

Prosecuting Attorney Roy E. Glidewell of Reynolds county said he was informed that Hill bought a five-gallon can of gasoline at a filling station last night.

Hill had called the Highway Patrol last night from the Highly Hotel at Bunker and reported he was having domestic difficulties. He said he was afraid to return home.

Glidewell said it appeared that Hill had been drinking when arrested. Hill denied knowing how the children were burned.

Bunker is in a remote rural section of Missouri. It is 12 miles west of Centerville, the county seat.

TRANSIT SERVICE INCREASE INDICATED SINCE CHECK BEGAN

A belief that there has been an increase in bus and streetcar service since city employes have been checking on the adequacy of transportation facilities was expressed today by Director of Public Utilities Conway B. Briscoe.

Letters and phone calls received in his office and observations made by the city's inspectors lead to this impression, Briscoe said.

He added, however, that it would not be possible to arrive at a firm conclusion on the matter until statistics gathered by the inspectors had been compiled and analyzed.

The Public Service Co. denied there had been any increase in service since the check by the city was started. Weekday scheduled mileage in January is 128,073 miles a day, as compared with 128,143 in December, the company stated, and bears the same relationship as the mileage scheduled for the same two months a year ago. In January 1951, the mileage was 131,041 and in December 1950 it was 131,579, the company said.

The company said it had given the city copies of current schedules at the time the city check began, and that the same schedules are being followed now, with no additional service.

EISENHOWER, TAFT BACKERS VIE TO BE EAST SIDE DELEGATE

Two East Side Republican leaders, one supporting the candidacy of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower and the other Senator Robert A. Taft for the presidential nomination, will compete for delegate to the Republican national convention from the Twenty-fourth Illinois District in the April 8 primary.

Former State Senator John T. Thomas of Belleville announced yesterday that he would be a candidate for delegate from the district, which comprises St. Clair and Madison counties. Thomas, aligned with the Republican faction of Boss Dan McGlynn, said that he would first support United States Senator Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois for President and then would switch to Taft. Dirksen is not a candidate.

Alderman Henry A. Schwarz of Belleville is lining up support for his candidacy for delegate. He said he would support Eisenhower in the convention.

JOHN B. HARRIS IS SEEKING STATE'S ATTORNEY NOMINATION

John B. Harris, Granite City attorney, announced yesterday that he would be a candidate for the Democratic nomination for state's attorney of Madison county and that he would suppress all forms of illegal commercialized gambling if elected.

Harris is the second Madison county Democrat to enter the race for prosecutor against State's Attorney Austin Lewis, who is also a Democrat. The other is Anthony W. Daly, Alton attorney and former probate judge.

In outlining his platform in a letter to fellow committeemen, Harris said that "only by nominating worthy men and women for public office can the Democratic party remain in power in this country." The Illinois primary will be April 3.

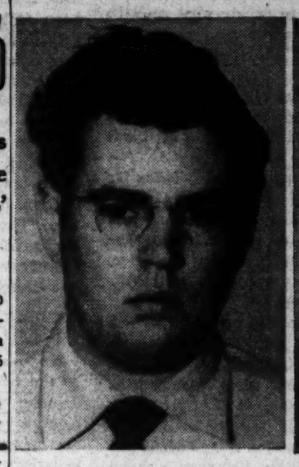
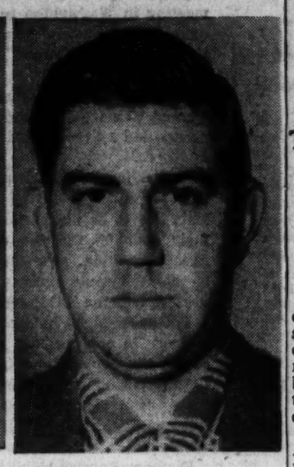
3 Suspects in $6783 Bank Holdup In Laddonia Seized, 2 in St. Louis



JAMES R. SKILLMAN



EVANS A. JACKSON JR.

Ex-Convict Admits Robbery After Capture Here, Implicates Third Man Who Is Arrested Later in Georgia.

Two men wanted for the $6783 robbery of the Bank of Laddonia, Mo., last June 20 were arrested in an apartment at 5024 Kensington avenue early today and the third members of the gang was picked up shortly after noon near Columbus, Ga., the Federal Bureau of Investigation reported.

Those arrested here were James R. Skillman, a former convict, who was asleep when police and FBI agents entered the apartment, and Evans A. Jackson Jr., who surrendered to waiting officers when he entered the place later. The third man, arrested on the highway between Fort Benning and Columbus, was Leonard W. Rickett, a former convict.

Donald Hostetter, agent in charge of the St. Louis FBI office, said Jackson was the leader of the gang that entered the Laddonia bank, locked three employes in the vault and swept up the money from the teller's cage.

Hostetter said it was learned Rickett, a tuckpointer working in nearby Mexico, Mo., cashed his pay checks at the Laddonia bank in order to learn the locations of the vault and teller's cage. He said the robbers used two automobiles and a truck in driving to and away from the bank, changing vehicles three times in order to avoid detection. Rickett drove the truck in which the loot was finally traced to St. Louis, Hostetter said. The money has not been recovered.

The weapons picked up by the arresting officers included a repeating shotgun, a sawed-off shotgun, Thompson submachinegun, a rifle, a revolver, an automatic pistol and a plentiful supply of ammunition for all the weapons.

Participating in the arrests with the FBI agents were St. Louis Policemen Lt. Michael Quinlisk, Sgt. Joseph McCarthy and Detectives Paul Thompson and Cornelius Powers.

ROBBED OF $800 OUTSIDE STORE SHE AND HUSBAND OWN

Mrs. Sadie Kohn, who, with her husband, Saul, operates a grocery at 6235 Plymouth avenue, Wellston, was robbed of $800 and some checks outside the store early today.

Mrs. Kohn told police she and her son, Beryl, drove up to the store shortly after midnight to open it to cash payroll checks for night-shift employes of Wagner Electric Co. nearby.

Before they could get out of the machine, two men armed with revolvers approached, took the son's wallet containing $5 and Mrs. Kohn's purse containing the $800 and fled in an automobile that had been parked around the corner on Delaware avenue. When last seen the robbers were headed east on Etzel avenue toward St. Louis.

Pfc. Rains

Rains said the Chinese Reds were helping the prisoners to celebrate Christmas but he did not give details.

U.S. EMPLOYMENT SERVICE PRAISED, BLAMED AT INQUIRY

NEW YORK, Jan. 12 (AP)—The United States Employment Service came in for both praise and criticism yesterday during a hearing by a Senate subcommittee investigating charges of waste in overseas construction allegedly running into millions of dollars. The agency supplies men for Government building jobs abroad.

Grace Cooke of Boston, executive secretary of the National Employment Board and of the Employment Agencies Protective Association of the United States, testified that men furnished by the Federal hiring agency are "inferior" compared with those offered by private agencies.

However, Francis A. Capell, general manager of the Personnel Service Bureau, said he believed the Federal agency "does a very good job."

WORK EXPERIENCE SURVEY TO BE MADE HERE BY U.S.

Questions on work experience in 1951 will be asked of a number of St. Louisans in the January current population survey of the United States Census Bureau starting Monday, district supervisor Bernard J. Scheve said today.

Persons canvassed in the survey will be asked how many weeks they worked last year, whether the work was full time or part time and what type of work was done. The questions are intended to produce information on the nation's labor supply needed in planning defense programs.

HARRY CARAY TAKES A BRIDE

Harry Caray, St. Louis sports announcer, and Miss Marian Binkin, also of St. Louis, were married yesterday at the city hall in Miami, Fla.

The former Miss Binkin, a saleswoman at Famous-Barr's Clayton store, lived at 7932 Monroe drive, Vinita Park. Caray was married previously to the former Miss Dorothy Kuntz, 330 Chestnut avenue, Webster Groves. They were divorced in 1949. Mr. and Mrs. Caray will make their home in St. Louis.

MERCHANT SHOT, KILLED; IGNORED ROBBER'S ORDER

Two Holdup Men Flee Empty-Handed From Confectionery Owned by Matteo Alfano.

Matteo Alfano, proprietor of a confectionery at 1800 O'Fallon street, died at City Hospital today of a bullet wound suffered last night when he was shot by a robber after failing to obey an order to hand over the contents of his cash register.

Police were told by Miss Angie Alfano that she was in the store with her father when two Negroes entered at 7:10 o'clock and purchased gum and cigarettes. As her father opened the cash register to make change, one man drew a revolver and demanded money.

Alfano quickly closed the cash drawer. The robber fired one shot, the bullet striking Alfano in the left chest. The robbers then fled without taking anything. Alfano, who was 75 years old, lived at 1709½ O'Fallon street.

The man who fired the shot was described as about 35 years old, wearing a gray topcoat and a hat. The second man was younger, wore a gray jacket and was hatless. A short time after the shooting two Negroes stole a truck of the Potter Electric Signal Co., which had been parked in the 2100 block of Carr street by a burglar alarm repair man.

The stolen truck was observed by Police Chauffeur William Campbell, Lucas Avenue District, who followed it in his patrol to the 1100 block of North Ninth street, where the two Negroes abandoned the truck and fled on foot. Campbell said one man wore a gray jacket and had no hat.

SIX WOMEN LOSE PURSES TO THIEVES IN THREE HOURS

Six women reported their purses were stolen within a three-hour period last night. The thefts occurred in various sections of the city between 5:30 and 7:30 p.m. In two instances the thieves were captured.

Mrs. Vivian Schuler, 4471 Olive street, said two Negroes grabbed her purse, containing $7, as she was about to enter the apartment building in which she lives. Jack Schrecengost, 4432 Washington boulevard, witnessed the theft and accompanied police in a squad car on a search of the neighborhood. He identified two men arrested at Sarah street and Cook avenue, who admitted taking the purse.

Mrs. Cordelle Harris, Negro, 4365 West Belle place, reported three white boys grabbed her purse, containing $36, in the 2800 block of Washington avenue. Three teen-age boys were arrested later at Fourteenth and St. Charles streets and admitted the theft. They said, however, that they had dropped the purse while fleeing.

Others who reported purses stolen, together with the amount of money lost, were: Mrs. Dorothy West, 3722 Maffitt avenue, no money; Mrs. Betty Blitz, 2603 North Jefferson avenue, $25; Stella Gorski, 7014 Morganford road, $4, and Alma Kiburz, 2103 Maury avenue, $7.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

A Way Out in the Middle East

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

In his articles from the Middle East Stewart Alsop appears to have been deeply affected by the anti-West views he encountered in the Arab capitals.

If the Arab states are in the impossible condition he describes, and if their irrational obsession with Israel is as strong as he has been led to believe, and if it is bound to lead to another Israel-Arab war which "would spell disaster to Western interests," it is obviously unwise on our part to court such disaster by squandering vast sums of money to bring about the Arab rearmament that would provide the springboard for that war. Mr. Alsop presents as inevitable precisely those aspects of the dilemma which are the most fatal.

But he attempts to strengthen his major conclusion, which is most depressing, by proving that the alternatives are still worse.

* * *

After a reference to the "bitter suspicion" of the Arabs that sooner or later the United States will "abandon the whole Middle East in favor of Israel" (without saying just whose fear or aberration this may be) he then echoes the portentous threat that the whole Middle East will be drawn into the Soviet bloc.

We are surprised that an experienced journalist such as Mr. Alsop does not distinguish between partisan frothing at the mouth and political reality.

Every Arab politician who represents the ruling cliques, absentee landlords or feudal parasites from whom the leadership is drawn, realizes his whole class would be ground to powder if the Middle East "entered the Soviet bloc."

Such political statements coming from the Arab world should be recognized for what they are—strained and exaggerated threats.

Mr. Alsop's objection to American "favoritism" as demonstrated by the allocation of the same sums by the United States through its Mutual Security Aid Program to both Israel and the Arab states, although the latter "have the oil, and the immense majority of the population," really obscures the point.

* * *

One of the thorniest problems of the Arab economy is that it cannot at present properly absorb even the funds being granted. Representatives of the State Department have indicated that the Arab states are not yet in a position to absorb larger sums; their absorptive capacity for outside capital must grow precisely as creative large-scale projects get under way.

Besides, does it mean nothing to own almost half the world's oil reserves? It is Israel which has nothing but its human resources in which to invest, and which can do something creative with the money granted immediately—thus incidentally lightening the burden that would otherwise be constituted for the world at large by the hundreds of thousands of Jewish refugees, of whom several hundred thousand have been expelled from Arab countries as a result of Arab-Jewish tension.

There must be some way out of this dilemma. But first we must grasp the fundamental reality that the Arab lands are potentially wealthy, so wealthy that the political apprehensions of the Arab leaders vis-a-vis Israel and Israel's supposed ambitions are either fraudulent or paranoiac.

* * *

It is really not enough for Mr. Alsop to say that "logical or not, these fears exist." A way must be shown the Arab leaders of converting their vast lands into the gardens they could become. The revenues from their enormous oil reserves must be applied to the rehabilitation and reconstruction of their tottering social orders. It is only in this way that the Middle East can become a "bastion" of democracy and not, as Mr. Alsop terms it, the "inflammable mush" it is today.

There is no reason in the nature of things why this cannot be done. There are, we believe, enough elements of vitality among the awakening Arab nations to support a genuine attempt to grapple with the material and social problems of that area, and help the Arab governments emerge from the miasma of small-mindedness, ill-tempered resentments, and baseless fears that at present vitiate all discussion.

Competition or Socialism?

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I agree with Mayor Darst that Public Service Co. needs some good competition—but that the city should give it, I think not. Isn't that a bit Socialistic?

Meekly Accepted

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

From all indications the people of St. Louis have abandoned the fight against radio on their busses and streetcars, and have meekly accepted this outrageous invasion of privacy as a part of their everyday lives. For shame!

Stretching Credulity

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

How can Senator Taft be so cocksure about having over 600 votes "in the bag" when as yet not a single delegate to the Republican convention has been chosen?

A Course in Indochina

The death of Gen. de Lattre de Tassigny, who had done so much to rally French forces in Indochina, is a severe blow to the Allied cause. It comes at a time when military leaders are meeting in Washington to decide what shall be done if the Chinese intervene. It emphasizes the need for a strong initiative to avert a greater conflict.

Britain's Foreign Minister Eden has publicly warned China that aggression in Indochina will be resisted by the United Nations just as it was in Korea.

Aggression in Korea was resisted because for the sake of peace in the long run the Communists had to be taught that they cannot achieve their aims by the use of armed force. The French position, now supported by Mr. Eden, is that the same reasons would apply to Chinese aggression in Indochina.

Yet to resist, to hold on, to expend lives and treasure in another long struggle leading probably to another military stalemate, is not enough. If resistance is necessary should aggression come, even more necessary is it, by creative statesmanship, to avert if possible the circumstance under which aggression might come.

France's Foreign Minister Schuman was on the right track when just before the Pleven government fell, he called for a cease-fire in Indochina. It is impossible to know whether a cease-fire on honorable terms can be obtained. But certainly an honest effort to obtain one would be far preferable to a policy of drifting into an enlarged conflict there.

Korea has established the fact that the Communists cannot throw the U.N. off the Asian mainland, and that the U.N. cannot drive the Communists out of North Korea, without an expansion of the war which neither side, so far, has chosen to undertake. If the Chinese should intervene in Indochina, and if that should bring the response of increased U.N. resistance, probably the same sort of stalemate would be established there. Would it not be much better to recognize the situation in advance, and seek to stabilize it?

France is currently without a government, but Foreign Minister Schuman undoubtedly speaks for the French people when he calls for a settlement in Indochina. Steps should be taken in the United States and Britain to back him up. It should be made perfectly clear that, while the West will resist aggression, it is also ready for a settlement that will remove any possible excuse for aggression.

Meantime American aid in materials and supplies to the French in Indochina is evidence for the Kremlin that the United States is against Communist aggression wherever it occurs.

Wide Swath for a Princess

Princess Margaret of England is being criticized for the second straight year by the League Against Cruel Sports, which we suppose is somehow significant of her having passed her twenty-first birthday and being grown up. It is said that people can tell they are growing older by the feeling that whatever they do is being done over again. Princess Margaret plainly is growing older, as the League Against Cruel Sports intimates, perhaps not too kindly.

We mind us when Margaret was so young that she was not growing older, as attested by the fact that she was never criticized for the same thing twice. It took a fast-moving critic to criticize Her Highness for the same thing once before it had been relegated to public apathy by something new.

Four years ago the Sunday Pictorial criticized Princess Margaret for staying up late four evenings in one week. Next year The Daily Express put a peeping-Tom telephoto lens on a camera and photographed her swimming on Capri, in a fetching bathing suit, with her equerry, Maj. Thomas Harvey, of whom it must be said he wore a felt hat and a shirt with the tail out over his swimming shorts. The Princess was not too much dashed, for two months later she and Sharman Douglas danced the can-can in frilly black pants at the United States Embassy.

Last year the League Against Cruel Sports criticized her for having "followed a hunt of the Pytchley foxhounds on Jan. 6 in a motor vehicle." The Masters of the Fox Hounds rose to her defense, but the L.A.C.S. is back scolding Margaret again this year for attending a meet of the Bucclegh Hounds in Scotland.

Speaking for the League Against Cruel and Unnecessary Criticism of Princesses, we are confident Princess Margaret hasn't really reached the Repetitious Age at all, and we wish for her many new adventures, every one of them happy and exciting.

A Parliament for Europe

The world does move!

Less than a month ago Italian Premier DeGasperi asked the European Assembly at Strasbourg to study the possibility of a federal parliament for the continent, and his proposal was severely criticized.

Now the foreign ministers of six European countries—France, Italy, West Germany, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg—have drawn up rather detailed plans for the establishment of such a parliament by Jan. 1, 1955.

Of course, ministers may propose while governments dispose. The obstacles to an organic, political integration of Europe—as against a close, co-operative military alliance—are numerous and deep-seated. Nations which have been wary of each other for centuries and centuries may not be readily welded together—especially not with a piece of paper.

The paper drawn up by the foreign ministers in Paris, however, is a notable advance toward an all-important goal. It calls for the establishment, within three years, of a bicameral parliament elected directly by the people of the six countries. This parliament would have the fundamental power of levying taxes.

It would set up and administer a joint defense budget, and it would also administer economic and industrial arrangements under the Schuman Plan. Thus it would exercise much of the sovereignty now vested in the individual nations and would have authority over wide and vital segments of their life.

The foreign ministers do not expect such a parliament to come to life over-night, so they have outlined two preliminary steps. First, there would be a preliminary period during which defense appropriations would be voted by the six national parliaments and administered by a joint international board. In addition to this board, there would be the Council of Ministers and Assembly chosen by the six parliaments. (This is, in effect, the present Strasbourg set-up plus the defense board.)

In the second phase, more power would be conferred on the international defense board, and the military budget would be originated in the European Assembly. But it would still be voted by the individual parliaments.

Then would come federalism. The directly elected international parliament would replace the interim bodies, and it would take over basic powers from the national parliaments.

What seems simple and easy on paper may prove anything but easy in actuality. As we have said, history, tradition and culture make European integration difficult. Also, short-sighted politicians may set themselves against the necessary delegations of sovereignty. Some, like DeGaulle, already have done so. The Russians almost surely will continue to do what they can, directly or indirectly, to strip the gears. Undue pressure from the United States might be self-defeating.

But the idea of integration, if not of full unification, has gotten its roots into the European mind. Those roots are sending up little sprouts such as this parliamentary plan. And, who knows, one of these sprouts may shoot up and burgeon as a United Europe.

Taft's Strength in the Senate

As President Truman is plagued and blocked by the Southern Democrats, would Dwight Eisenhower, if elected president, be plagued and blocked by the Taft Republicans? The question may be speculative and premature, but it is interesting.

On the day after Gen. Eisenhower made his announcement in Paris, the Senate Republicans met to choose a new floor leader as successor to the late Senator Wherry. Precedent and custom argued for the promotion of Senator Saltonstall of Massachusetts, the party whip. But Senator Saltonstall is an Eisenhower man, and the Taft forces determined to deny him the leadership. They succeeded in electing Senator Styles Bridges of New Hampshire by a vote of 26 to 15.

As the vote indicates, Taft's strength in the Senate as of now probably exceeds Gen. Eisenhower's by nearly two to one. This estimate is borne out by the record of Republican votes last year on sending more troops to Europe.

Nineteen Republican Senators—not including Taft—voted against the compromise resolution which approved the Truman-Eisenhower policy of sending four new divisions. These 19, including such men as Bricker, Jenner, Dirksen and Kem, may be considered to represent the hard core of opposition to Gen. Eisenhower on foreign policy.

In addition to them, Senator Taft can probably count on 10 or more members of his party to follow his leadership on foreign affairs. For example, 28 Republicans supported the Mundt amendment to the troops-for-Europe resolution, designed to make it plain that no troops could be sent abroad without congressional approval, which was essentially the Taft position. Thus Taft can plausibly claim a bloc of close to 30 Republicans at present, out of a total of 46.

Whether he would command that much strength in the new Senate taking office next year is anybody's guess, but this much can be said: If Gen. Eisenhower is nominated and elected, the probability is that he will face a substantial bloc of Republican Senators, comparable to the Southern bloc now faced by President Truman, whose support for his policies would depend upon the pleasure of Senator Taft.

Checking Funeral Costs

Families of at least 29 of the 119 miners killed in the Orient No. 2 gas explosion have benefited by the existence of an unusual enterprise—Union Funeral Service, a co-operative undertaking establishment operated by the United Mine Workers' Local 1111.

Union Funeral Service conducted burials of 29 of the 49 miners who lived at West Frankfort at an average cost of $550, not including vaults ordered by about half the families. What makes this figure noteworthy is its comparison with the average bill of $700 handed widows and orphans left by the 111 miners killed at Centralia in 1947. The funeral of one of the Centralia victims cost $1184.

Exorbitant funeral costs, such as those charged by some private undertakers to families of the Centralia dead, are sickening. As we said at the time, that is the sort of shameless, nauseous greed that makes a person's blood boil. It is heartening, therefore, to learn that the nonprofit Union Funeral Service is helping some widows and orphans stretch burial funds.

But perhaps more important, charges of the union's undertaking firm will provide an excellent yardstick by which survivors of the other victims of Orient No. 2 may measure their funeral bills. We hope that no funeral director has taken advantage of those grief-stricken families in their hour of distress. A comparison of costs with those of Union Funeral Service should tell the story.

Speed-Up for Tax Cases

Secretary of the Treasury Snyder is removing some more useless barriers against tax prosecutions in the Bureau of Internal Revenue. From now on, cases for prosecution will be sent directly from field offices of the bureau to the Justice Department.

Until now, these cases were jumped successively from field offices to regional offices to the bureau's chief counsel. They could be and sometimes were held up at any point along the line. Charles Oliphant, who resigned under fire as chief counsel, was criticized for obstructionism in tax evasion cases.

Such cases are serious enough to demand quick action at a high level, so the new system makes sense. It never did make sense to shunt tax dodgers across a series of hurdles, only to have too many of them fall flat.

Dewey Short on Economic Aid

As he often does, Dewey Short has taken a position which everybody would like to take, but which many people are dissuaded from taking by a few second thoughts.

Representative Short wants to cut off economic aid to Europe. Zut! Forthwith.

This is a nice, easy solution to a vexing problem, but let's look at the second thoughts. Should we cut off economic aid if it means, as it would, reducing the capacity of Western Europe to share in the defense program we are pushing? Should we cut off economic aid if it meant, as it might, the creation of unrest which would encourage Communism from within while we seek to build a barrier against Communism from without? Should we cut off economic aid before the causes for Europe's economic insufficiency have been removed—in other words, withdraw the blood transfusion before the patient is cured?

Representative Short is on the right track. Economic aid to Europe should indeed be reduced when it can be done. But let him first tell us how to restore Western Europe's normal trade with Eastern Europe, how to improve the terms on which it trades with the rest of the world, how to reduce the arms burden, and how to increase Europe's productivity. These are the reasons for economic aid, and they must be dealt with if that aid is to be tapered off.

Education Is Not a Luxury

The Mirror of Public Opinion

In 1949 Americans spent as much on their public schools as they spent on tobacco, and only half as much as on liquor; neglect shows in understaffed, underpaid teaching groups and inadequate buildings; yet now more than ever intelligence is at a premium.

From The Christian Science Monitor

Dollars don't tell everything about the amount of thought and effort Americans are putting into the education of their children. But they tell plenty.

Consider the fact that in 1949 Americans spent about as much on their public elementary and secondary schools as they spent on tobacco and only half as much as on liquor. Put the five billion dollars devoted to education against the 20 billions spent on gambling and compare the results. Remember that far more money is lavished on entertainment, jewelry, cosmetics, and soft drinks than on educating a generation of Americans who will be responsible for tomorrow's momentous decisions.

The taxpayer, groaning under the burden of rearmament, legitimately demands that all public expenditures not absolutely vital at this time be curtailed. But while thoughtless billions flow into luxuries which in some cases are positive social evils it is hard to make a case for choosing public education as the point at which spending must stop. American youth deserves better than that.

It is ironic that, in general, states paying the largest percentage of the income of their citizens for schools have an average or less-than-average economic ability.

It is ironic that public schools have been included among "less essential building projects" in the allocation of steel, though it is estimated that 520,000 new classroom units between now and 1960 will be needed to keep abreast of expanding needs.

It is ironic that between 1940 and 1950 the average salary of teachers, principals and supervisors increased only 108 per cent as against a 132 per cent increase for all gainfully employed persons—though the pay was low to begin with and there is need to attract many more able people to a profession already overworked and understaffed.

The United States is attacked by critics all over the world as being materialistic. It is far from that, as the record of its contemporary philanthropy shows—including the unselfish idealism of a good many members of the teaching profession. But materialistic pressures everywhere would constantly seek to subordinate men to things, ideas to dollars, intelligence to force. This is especially true in a period in which grim necessity demands a huge outlay on the weapons of war.

Now more than ever America needs alert, well-informed citizens, independent thinkers, skilled workers. Intelligence is at a premium—though under suspicion from those who do not see that a book may be more powerful than a bomb. Fortunately the choice is not between schools and bombers. In-between stand the tavern, the race track and a million luxuries which prove that if Americans want good schools they can pay for them—as well as for the bombers.

A Cardinal on Franco Spain

From The Commonweal

That diffidence toward the Franco regime today need not simply be a carryover from the tragic Spanish Civil War is substantiated by a speech by Cardinal Segura of Seville, published the first of December. It was devoted to the present condition of the Spanish worker.

Because of their rude struggle for bare subsistence, the Cardinal said, the workers in Spain are apathetic toward politics of any sort. Toward present trade unions they manifest a similar attitude, convinced that their unions are simply state organs which were tools of management. They hold that "employers and the wealthy" comprise the main obstacle to their economic betterment.

As a consequence the Spanish worker lists his enemies in the following order of importance: "employers, the wealthy, the Church—which he does not fear—and the Army—which he does." He "believes that the official wage he receives is a starvation wage and therefore unjust."

Finally Cardinal Segura declares that "the workers believe themselves to be slaves. They say that in the past slaves were bought and now they are rented." The Cardinal presented his statements on the basis of investigations into the condition of the workers in the Archdiocese of Seville, but they are held to be typical of many parts of Spain.

Cardinal Segura has long been a critic of the regime of Franco. And in this same speech he did praise the regime for its accomplishments in low-cost housing. It must further be recognized that whatever the political regime in Spain it would be confronted by economic difficulties.

But the general tenor of Cardinal Segura's vigorous plea to improve the living conditions and the status of the Spanish worker goes far to explain why independent observers in many lands entertain continuing doubts about the Franco regime as it exists today.

Farms Grow Larger, Tenants Fewer

From The Des Moines Register

The number of individual farm units in the United States has declined very sharply in the last 15 years.

The decline has been entirely in farms operated by tenants and share-croppers. In fact, the number of farms operated by owners has increased.

The drop in number of farms has been accompanied, of course, by an increase in the average size of farm. In 1935 the average acreage was 155. In 1950 it was slightly more than 200.

While the number of tenant-operated farms has gone down, the proportion of land area operated by non-owners has gone up. In other words, there are fewer tenant farms—but they are bigger.

These trends represent a steady rise in farm prosperity in the last 15 years. Agriculture today is in much better shape, from both the sociological and economic viewpoint, than it was in the mid-thirties. Despite the decrease in number of small tenant and share-cropper farms, it still has a long way to go before agricultural manpower will be fully and effectively used.

Improvement from now on will be much more difficult—even during a period of high industrial prosperity. Most of the capable and energetic farm families who were on small, inefficient farms in the '30s have made the adjustment. The "hard core" of backward farmers, especially in the South, remains.

It will take special educational efforts to provide these low-income farmers with the means of getting out of the rut of subsistence agriculture.

Between Book Ends

A Fashionable Dry-Point

SYBIL, by Louis Auchincloss. (Houghton Mifflin, 294 pgs., $3.)

Mary Ross in the New York Herald Tribune.

"Sybil" is a dry-point portrait of a poor little rich girl, that is, a girl who didn't want the life of wealth and New York social position into which she had been born. She had no real affection for her anxious, well-meaning mother or for her boisterously genial father, who had to cover up his chagrin that his family was sustained largely by his wife's sister's means. Sybil was a reluctant debutante, almost churlish, in fact, because overpowering shyness compounded her boredom and distaste for the existence into which her mother and aunt were trying conscientiously to launch her. Then, to complicate her dilemma further, she fell wholeheartedly in love with the season's catch, the handsome, conventional scion of an opulent family, and, by her very strangeness, attracted him. They were married shortly before this country entered World War II.

Louis Auchincloss

Sybil knew from what she was rebelling but not to what. She had retreated into serious reading of history when she might have been going to dances, but she had no yen for a career, no real alternative to the life she rejected.

When Philip, come home from the war, was attracted by another woman in their set and thought he wanted to switch wives, Sybil, for the first time, fought back, and in so doing, discovered that what she had believed to be her love for him was merely a romantic myth. Standing alone, she looked at herself as she was and at the only life she knew how to live and found she could accept it. "It sometimes seemed to her that she was making a life out of the ashes of her love, but there was more left than ashes. There was a grate; there were andirons, indeed there was a whole hearth."

Sybil is not an exceptional woman in anything but her capacity to be honest with herself. The value of Mr. Auchincloss' novel, likewise, is that he has taken persons and circumstances that cannot be unusual in the circles of which he writes and given them light and shade and definition by the clarity and scrupulousness with which he pictures them.

In the current jargon, Sybil's story is an example of the way in which one woman attained emotional maturity. The book, however, is not concerned with psychological patter but with an individual and her circle. While one cannot help wondering if Sybil will not some day ache for a fire on the hearth, this picture of her first eight years of marriage is both interesting and distinctive.

Weirdly Logical

TOMORROW AND TOMORROW AND THE FAIR CHESSMEN, by Lewis Padgett. (Gnome Press, 254 pgs., $2.75.)

"The doorknob opened a blue eye and looked at him." This line opens and closes "The Fairy Chessmen," and is probably as fair a sample of the book as can be provided. Padgett has been writing good science fiction for a long time, and these two short novels are among his best—and most complex and confusing. "Tomorrow and Tomorrow" happens just about a hundred years from now, and it happens to a nuclear physicist who is one of the guardians of Uranium Pile Number One. Involving hypnosis, telepathy, alternate time-lines and a tyrannical world government, the story builds up rapidly and with suspense. As to "The Fairy Chessmen," if you can imagine enjoying a story that starts and stops with "The doorknob opened a blue eye and looked at him," then it's for you. Weirdly logical, it tells of a time farther in the future when the laws of nature have been repealed and truth is variable. These novels are not recommended for the science fiction beginner, but for the aficionado they are required reading.

UNION ECONOMIST STRESSES RISE IN STEEL PRODUCTION

WSB Hearings to Be Recessed Three Weeks to Allow Companies to Prepare Evidence.

By JOSEPH HANLON
A Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12—The current phase of the Wage Stabilization Board hearings of the dispute between the CIO United Steel Workers and the steel companies was ending today with testimony by Otis Brubaker, economist for the union.

After today there will be a three-week recess to enable the steel companies to prepare their evidence, and the hearings will then be resumed in New York.

Brubaker pitched his argument for granting the union's demands mainly on the claim that they were justified by increased productivity in the industry; a decline in "real wages" of steel workers; the industry's ability to pay what is sought, and the contention that granting the union's demands would not contribute to inflationary pressures.

Productivity Figures.

On productivity he said, projecting and adapting the latest figured compiled by the Bureau of Labor Statistics for the steel industry alone:

"From mid-1948, the date of our last pre-Korea increase, through mid-1951, the latest date for which reasonably final data are available, the BLS index shows a productivity increase of 12.8 per cent . . .

"Had the steel industry been willing to pass on to its employes and our members the fruits of this productivity it could have increased wages by 12.8 per cent, paid a like higher price for its purchased materials, taxes, and so forth, and have increased its net profits by at least the same percentage—all this without increasing prices."

Dealing with wages, Brubaker said that from mid-1948 to Jan. 1951 they had increased—he was again using BLS figures—to $1.82 an hour on the basis of straight time hourly earnings. But that was an "apparent" increase, he said, and when applied to the consumer's price index rise which roughly measures cost of living, "real" earnings of steel workers were 88 cents an hour in mid-1948 and $1.03 in Jan. 1951.

Ability to Pay.

Turning to the ability to pay argument, Brubaker, taking the approximate periods as before but using the reports of the 20 largest producers for full fiscal years, said profits had risen from $4,351,300 in 1948 to $5,108,000 at the close of 1951.

"It might well be expected," said Brubaker when he got to talking about inflation, "that with high volume operations, with mushrooming profits, and with rapidly increasing productivity, the steel industry might well have absorbed cost increases, including wage increases and still have held the line on profits. . . .

"Instead this industry has chosen to fan the fires of inflation . . . with full awareness of the inevitable inflationary effects of its price actions, this industry has raised its prices again and again and again.

"It has tried to convince the public that labor is responsible for these increases. The fact disproves the claim."

Prof. Harry Shulman of the Yale University law school, chairman of the WSB tri-partite panel, said the htree-week recess had been sought by representatives of the steel industry so that they could have time to prepare their case.

Mass of Documents.

The union has not yet finished presentation of its case, but it came into the hearing with a mass of documents in book form, charts and tables of statistics, and elaborate analysis of the material it has presented or still is to present. This apparently caught the industry representatives by surprise, and they asked for the three weeks to assemble similar material, from which, of course, their spokesmen will draw different conclusions.

Stanley Ruttenberg, CIO economist, offered an economic treatise yesterday discussing the industry generally and presenting the union's arguments for its request for increased wages and other advantages, totaling 22 in all.

The three-week recess asked for by the company and granted by the WSB will mean no further hearings after today until Feb. 4. The union will have additional witnesses to testify when hearings are resumed, and the industry will take several days to present its testimony. There will be another day or two of rebuttal testimony by each side.

What this adds up to is that the hearings are likely to continue very close to Feb. 24, the end of the 45-day strike moratorium to which the union consented.

The WSB, which has power to recommend terms of settlement, but not to impose them, will have very few days after the close of the hearings to draft its recommendations and the union and the industry will have very little time to consider them and answer "yes" or "no."

Administration Task.

Time will be running out rapidly and the prospect is that the Administration will have to seek some means other than a WSB recommendation of avoiding a steel strike which may well come at or about the time of a coal strike.

Representatives of the coal industry have been sitting in on the WSB hearings. One of them was asked facetiously by a reporter if he was there for "spring training" because the outcome of the current steel dispute and the prospective coal dispute will set the pattern for the 1952 round of wage increases by industrial workers.

500 MORE SCHOOLS TO BE STARTED THIS SPRING, D.P.A. SAYS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12 (AP)—The Defense Production Administration announced yesterday that 500 more schools would be started this spring, bringing the total under construction to 2400 across the country.

Hospital building will continue at about present levels. However, DPA said the construction of stores, office and public buildings and less-essential commercial structures would be brought "to a virtual standstill" except in a few areas.

Industrial expansion will be slowed also. Structural steel for this purpose is cut by 40 per cent, requiring a slow-down even on plant-building projects already under way.

ST. LOUISAN NAMED TO U.S. DEFENSE ELECTRIC POWER JOB

Robert H. Sperreng, purchasing agent for Union Electric Co., has been named chief of the minor requirements branch, Defense Electric Power Administration, it was announced yesterday.

Sperreng, who succeeds B. B. Parker of North Carolina, lives at 7 Sappington Acres, St. Louis county. In another staff change, Secretary of the Interior Oscar Chapman announced that Hollis K. Sels of Newark, N.J., has succeeded Robert Brandt of Boston as director of the power supply division of the Defense Electric Power Administration.

YOUTH GETS EMPHASIS IN CHURCH COUNCILS

St. Louis Organization Joins National Movement of 10,000,000 Young People.

By JOHN T. STEWART
Church Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Youth was served by major Protestant denominations during the year-end holidays, and in St. Louis this week the Youth Council received major attention and support of the Metropolitan Church Federation.

Nearly 2000 students from 600 colleges in the United States and Canada, and 200 others from 45 countries of Europe, Asia and Africa, attended a year-end youth convention at the University of Kansas, Lawrence. This week, the Americans and Canadians had returned to their campuses and were organizing large and small discussion groups to deal with the questions raised at the Kansas convention.

In National Movement.

The St. Louis Youth Council, affiliated with the church federation, announced that it was joining a national movement called "The Call to United Christian Youth Action." It is said to represent 38 Protestant denominations with more than 10,000,000 young people in their ranks.

President of the Youth Council is Miss Margaret Riesinger of 5610 Murdoch avenue. She is a member of Hope Evangelical and Reformed Church, 6273 Eichelberger avenue. Miss Riesinger worked in a youth work camp last summer at Agape, Italy, as a representative of the Congregational-Christian Church Service Commission.

Miss Riesinger will be chairman of a youth mass meeting to be held on Sunday, Feb. 3, 8 p.m., at Scottish Rite Cathedral, 3637 Lindell boulevard. Mrs. Altha Coleman, director of religious education for the church federation, is supervising arrangements for the Feb. 3 mass meeting.

'Cider and Doughnuts.'

Delegates to the sixteenth quadrennial convention of the Student Volunteer Movement at the University of Kansas, heard the Rev. Dr. Truman B. Douglass describe the church's mission at home. A former minister of Pilgrim Congregational Church, St. Louis, he is executive vice president of the Congregational-Christian Board of Home Missions.

"Much of the university community is estranged from the Christian faith," he told them, "and it will take more than cider and doughnuts or a vesper service with organ music to change this.

"Too often we stress the picturesque and humanitarian aspects of home missions," Dr. Douglass said, "but its basic task is taking the church to people where they are, and a lot of the job is patient, day-to-day janitor work."

Problem of Racial Issues.

Another speaker was the Rev. Tracey Jones Jr., of New York, conference secretary of the Student Volunteer Movement, a second generation China missionary.

"People whose color of skin is not white, now are thanking God for it," he told the delegates. "This is something we dare not ignore. If the church cannot meet the racial issues of our time, the church will become irrelevant.

"There is optimism in the East, in a new confidence that the future will be better than the past, while we fear the future, because we are afraid we will not have as much as we have today. In the West, our prosperity makes us insensitive to their hunger, and our guilt weakens us.

"We were not sent with the admonition to 'go ye, and teach the English language to all peoples.' If we go out motivated by pity people will perceive that it is not pity that moves us but a sense of superiority.

"We cannot use the missionary enterprise to escape our own problems," the Rev. Mr. Jones warned. "There is no point in going to Africa because we can't deal with the racial problem at home."

LUTHERAN PASTOR GAINS FAME AS 'PHOTOGRAPHIC HOBBYIST'

The Rev. Herman Bielenberg, who was graduated from Concordia Seminary in 1923, "has achieved a national reputation as a photographic hobbyist," according to his friends in the Missouri Synod. His illustrated lecture, "Footprints of the Creator," has been given 270 times in 12 states.

The Rev. Mr. Bielenberg gave a program before the St. Louis Camera Club about a year ago. He is a member of the Photographic Society of America. In 1950 he ranked first in the nation with 81 acceptances in 26 exhibitions. In 1951 he ranked third with 86 acceptances in 29 salons.

In recognition of the twenty-fifth anniversary of his pastorate at Christ Lutheran Church, Oil City, Pa., his congregation granted him a three-month leave of absence. He is using the vacation to make a lecture tour. He was in St. Louis today, renewing acquaintances with seminary friends and camera fans. Tomorrow at 7:30 p.m., he will give an illustrated lecture at Hope Lutheran Church, Overland. His program will include "Footprints of the Creator."

1952 DRIVE OPENED BY SALVATION ARMY

Col. Ramsdale Leads St. Louis Area Staff in World-Wide Evangelistic Crusade.

The St. Louis Salvation Army staff, Midland Division, has enlisted in the international organization's 1952 evangelistic campaign, it was announced this week by Lt. Col. Albert E. Ramsdale, divisional commander.

Salvation Army international head, Gen. Albert Orsborn of London, England, has proclaimed a world-wide evangelistic campaign, to be known as "The Midnight Cry" crusade. The title is taken from the story in the book of Acts of Paul and Silas in prison.

In a call to action sent to every Salvation Army post in the world, Gen. Orsborn directed his workers to "search out human needs" in their communities, and to intensify their evangelistic efforts by meetings and personal vistation. Special emphasis is laid on work in new housing areas. Another goal is the enlistment of new Salvation Army soldiers.

"The crusade is the army's response to the desperate needs of this uneasy, restless, frightened world; to mankind's frustrations, fears and bewilderment," Gen. Orsborn explained.

The St. Louis organization observed a day of prayer on Thursday at the Tower Grove Citadel, 1324 Tower Grove avenue. The services were led by Col. Ramsdale, with the various corps of greater St. Louis taking part. One service was held at 2 p.m. and another at 7:30 p.m. The prayer services here were part of a world-wide observance designated by Gen. Orsborn. During the year "fireside prayer meetings" will be held in all neighborhoods where the Salvation Army works.

Last week Col. Ramsdale called together all Salvation Army officers of Missouri and southern Illinois for two days of planning and preparation for the year's crusade. Day and evening sessions were held at the new Lafayette Park Community Center, 1710 Carroll street.

3876 JEWISH CONGREGATIONS REPORTED IN UNITED STATES

There are 3876 Jewish congregations in the United States, according to Rabbi Louis I. Newman, head of the Jewish statistical bureau, New York. Of these local groups, 2577 had rabbis in 1951, or 66 of every 100 congregations in the country, a higher percentage than ever before.

"There are nearly 1300 congregations in all parts of the count that are still without rabbis," Dr. Newman reported. "This calls for serious attention by the Jewish communities, the theological schools, and the rabbinical associations.

"Jewish congregations of the country increased from 848 in 1900 to 3876 in 1951."

Seminaries Should Train Chaplains, Says Dr. Piepkorn of Concordia

Lutheran Professor Finds Present-Day Theological Students More Serious Than His 1928 Class.

The temperature was below 20, and an icy wind blew hard along Broadway. Yet the seminary professor wore no overcoat.

"I haven't yet fully become a cilivian, I'm in the process of transition," the former Chaplain (Col.) Arthur C. Piepkorn explained, insisting to his shivering companions that he was not cold.

This man who now teaches dogmatics to 600 young men at Concordia Seminary, spent 11 years in the army, and is not likely to lose very soon his military bearing and his ability to endure hardship without flinching.

Young Chaplains Needed.

"The army demands youth, even in its chaplains," Dr. Piepkorn said. "Older men just can't take it." He was commandant of the chaplain school at Fort Meade, Md., before taking the teaching job in November.

He thinks that theological seminaries should include orientation courses for chaplains in their courses. They should recognize the chaplaincy as a legitimate ministry, as much as foreign missions, he said. It ought to be made easy for men to move in and out from chaplaincy to pastorate, he believes.

At the school for chaplains they had a phrase, "TNT." It meant "techniques, no theology." The special training was designed to acquaint a man with the new developments in the whole field of counseling. "We assumed that when a man left his seminary, he had received his professional training," Dr. Piepkorn said.

Pastors as well as chaplains will be interested in how the army teaches its chaplains to counsel the young men and women in service. There have been two methods of approach, direct and indirect.

"Non-directive counseling," Dr. Piepkorn explains, "is based on the assumption that every man has within himself the capacity for solving his own problems. All he needs is to search out his motivations in conversation, that is, in counseling. The counselor must listen sympathetically. This method is the opposite to advice-giving.

"The extreme position of non-directive counseling has faded in influence. The system has its limitations in military service because of the limited time in which the chaplains may work with men—basic training takes only 13 weeks.

Effect of Military Service.

"I agree with the chaplain in Europe: 'A man comes out of military service the same as he went in, only more so.'

"This is the church's hour. Christ came to a world over which there lay an uneasy, temporary truce at arms; there was the disintegration of a culture, and the mood of cynicism.

"The present generation of theological students take their calling and training more seriously than mine did. (He was graduated from Concordia in 1928). "They are more realistic today; they will not take so many things for granted."

CLERGY TO DISCUSS CURRENT ISSUES AT DINNER FOR MEN

"Four controversial issues will be discussed by the three religious leaders of the three religious denominations located on Holy Corners, Kingshighway and Washington boulevards, on Wednesday, Jan. 16," the Temple Israel bulletin reported yesterday.

"Should our country engage in a preventive war? Is such a war moral? Should Congress now pass laws establishing military training in times of peace for our youth? Should religion be taught in the schools? Was the President right in deciding to send an Ambassador to one religious organization?

"Three religious leaders coming from three different religious seminaries will discuss these answers from their own backgrounds and from the interest of their own denominations. They will agree, they will differ, but they will differ just as amicably as they will agree. They will thus reveal the fragrance of America and the best in the Christian-Judea tradition."

The twenty-second annual men's inter-faith fellowship dinner will be held at St. John's Methodist Church at 6:30 p.m. Uniting in the annual event will be the men of Temple Israel and of Second Baptist Church. The speakers will be Rabbi Ferdinand M. Isserman, the Rev. Dr. Albea Godbold of St. John's Church, and the Rev. Leon Robison of Second Baptist Church.

DOCTORS TO ATTEND MASS AT HOSPITAL

St. John's Had 2413 Babies Born in 1951 Without Death of a Mother.

Each January, physicians in the department of obstetrics at St. John's Hospital attend a mass of thanksgiving. The mass is attended by Catholic and non-Catholic doctors who have delivered at least one baby during the previous year at the hospital.

The mass is always held on the Sunday nearest the Feast of the Holy Family. Since this year the feast is today, the mass will be held tomorrow at 8:15 a.m. in the hospital chapel, 307 S. Euclid avenue. The Rev. Edward T. Foote, S.J., regent of the St. Louis University School of Medicine, will be celebrant. After the mass, the physicians will be guests of the sisters of the hospital staff at a communion breakfast.

The annual mass of thanksgiving was started during World War II, when one year a record number of babies were delivered without the death of a mother. Staff members decided to set aside one day in January to thank God for His help.

Last year all of the mothers came through childbirth safely. The seventh annual mass of thanksgiving will mark this victory.

St. John's Hospital announced this week that in 1951 its department of obstetrics set a new record with 2413 births. Boys outnumbered girls 1263 to 1150. There were 21 sets of twins and one set of triplets. In 1950, 2281 babies were born.

11 Negroes Are Missionaries.

Eleven Negroes of the Methodist Church are missionaries in foreign countries. Four are assigned to India, three to Africa, and two each to Brazil and Borneo.

Youth Week Set for Jan. 27-Feb. 3.

Youth Week will be observed from Jan. 27 to Feb. 3, the Missouri Council of Churches has announced.

Castellani K.O.d, His Manager Attacks Referee

Weill Also Assaulted At Garden

By Murray Rose

NEW YORK, Jan. 12 (AP)—State boxing boss Bob Christenberry was ready to revoke Manager Tommy Ryan's license today and possibly plaster him with a big fine for his assault on Referee Ray Miller in a wild aftermath to the Ernie Duradno-Rocky Castellani fight in Madison Square Garden last night.

The raging manager stormed into the ring and threw punches at Miller seconds after the referee had stopped the fight at 2:04 of the seventh round of a 10-rounder and awarded a technical knockout to Durando over Castellani, Ryan's fighter.

Castellani had just staggered to his feet at nine after being clipped with a terrific right uppercut when Miller intervened.

"I stopped it because Castellani would have been hurt," Miller said. "You know how hard Durando can punch."

This observer and an overwhelming majority of ringside writers agreed that the referee had acted wisely.

Durando, a stocky, powerful puncher from Bayonne, N. J., is one of the hardest hitters in the middleweight ranks.

Suspended on the Spot.

Christenberry suspended Ryan on the spot, ordered Castellani's purse held up, and advised Ryan by telegram to appear at a hearing at the commission offices today.

At the meeting, Christenberry ordered the I.B.C. to give Castellani his purse, but to hold up on his manager's 33⅓ per cent.

Ten witnesses were heard after which Christenberry adjourned the meeting until next Friday.

Asked if he planned to take away Ryan's license, Christenberry said:

"Yes. I'll do everything in my power to see that he regrets creating such a disorderly scene.

"There is nothing more revolting to the public here and on television than to see an honest official attacked while doing his duty and protecting a boxer who might otherwise be seriously or fatally injured."

Ryan, who lives in Teaneck, N.J., before leaving the Garden last night, threw some more punches—this time at Matchmaker Al Weill.

Kicked and Punched.

Hugh Bradley, of the New York Journal-American, and other afternoon boxing writers were present in Castellani's dressing room when Weill entered.

Bradley said Ryan kicked and punched the middle-aged bespectacled matchmaker, knocked his glasses off and cut his face. Weill declined to name his assailant and said he would not press any charges.

Ryan, when informed that his license had been suspended, declared heatedly:

"My license? When I see Christenberry in the morning, I'll hit him in the mouth with it. That's what I think of the current boxing setup. I'm speaking loud so everyone can hear me."

He complained bitterly that the ringside microphone didn't carry the count loud enough.

Castellani said:

"I didn't hear the count and I wasn't hurt. I asked the referee to please not stop the fight, I was surprised when he did. I thought the round was over."

Rocky, who weighed 158½ to Durando's 157½, was a 9-to-5 favorite. He had looked like a sure winner through the first five rounds. He belled the crude but dangerous Durando at will and had opened cuts on Ernie's right and left cheekbones.

He seemed a breeze to sweep his eleventh straight win and his second over Durando whom he had whipped two years ago.

Knocked Down in Sixth.

But near the end of the sixth, Durando whacked Rocky on the head with one of his right hand bombs and the former Pennsylvanian dropped for nine. The crowd of 5799 (gross gate $20,685) started to howl.

In the seventh it was all Castellani for nearly two minutes. Suddenly Durando brought up a smashing uppercut that dropped Rocky on his face. Castellani barely staggered to his feet at nine and his legs were like gelatin.

Miller took one look at Castellani's eyes, eyed the charging Durando and stopped the fight. Ryan then stormed after Miller and pummeled the referee who fended off most of the blows. Special police and some of the seconds pulled the raging manager away.

Only two months ago Christenberry revoked the license of middleweight Rocky Compitello for punching and kicking Referee Jack Appel. And 11 years ago the same punishment was handed to the late Al (Bummy) Davis for an attack on Referee Billy Cavanagh.

Ryan became infuriated because he thought Miller acted too hastily in stopping the bout as his fighter reached his feet at the count of nine. Moving in to halt the unscheduled action are two of Durando's handlers, LOU LAICE, chief second, and JOHNNY DELSANNO (right), trainer.

Out-of-Season Football Drills Limited to 20 Sessions by New Rule

CINCINNATI, Jan. 12 (UP)—The National Collegiate Athletic Association voted today to restrict spring practice and out of season football drills to no more than 20 sessions.

The vote to restrict the drills was 105-46, barely over the two-thirds majority necessary to amend the constitution.

The proposition was accepted after an amendment to ban all out of season practice was rejected by a vote of 113-54.

The convention also adopted a resolution banning commitments for any bowl games for post season contests after next Jan. 2 and provided for a survey committee to study the "pressures" such games create.

The committee will report the results of its study and recommend any necessary action at the next convention.

Tougher Than Coaches' Plan.

The practice ruling, suggested by the southwest conference, was tighter than that suggested by the football coaches. The coaches had suggested a limit of 30 sessions over a six-week period on spring grid drills.

The convention also adopted a principle on financial aid to athletes which will require institutional administration of all funds granted to all athletes.

The regulation would not put alumni groups raising funds for athletic subsidization out of business, but it would require them to donate the money to the institution for allocation.

Another constitutional amendment defining principles of ethical conduct was approved and a committee of ethics to censure or recommend punishment for violations was authorized.

Take What You Get Again.

The convention yesterday reimposed its ban on unrestricted live television of college football, but Pennsylvania's Fran Murray feared a quick court test which might restore unlimited video.

Murray attempted to force the N.C.A.A.'s video committee to seek a court test of its program, before going ahead with the expanded but still restricted show for next fall. But his effort was voted down in a hurry.

"They rejected the most friendly way to put this to a test," Murray said. "Their refusal to accept my amendment indicates they're not as confident as they were a day ago."

Voting against the proposal with Murray also were Notre Dame, Kansas, Georgia Tech, Wayne, Ohio State and Rhode Island.

A constitutional amendment providing members could be expelled or suspended by two-thirds vote at any convention for violation of obligations of membership was approved.

Name Membership Committee.

Likewise, an amendment establishing a membership committee, consisting of the president and eight vice presidents, was accepted. The committee will have power to investigate and recommend to the council punishment for any member violating the N.C.A.A. code.

Rolla vs. Bears After Walloping By Concordia

The Rolla Miners will be hoping Washington University won't be as hot as the Preachers of Concordia Seminary were last night, when the Rolla team plays at the Bears' field house at 8:15 tonight. Concordia made it strictly no contest as they scored their ninth victory without a loss, 74-45, over the Miners.

The Preachers outhit Rolla from the field, 33 goals to 15, despite the fact that Coach Pete Pederson used his reserves during nearly half the game. Concordia led Rolla, 17-11, after the first quarter, and 41-19, at the half.

Curly Haas led Concordia's scorers with 15 points. Jerry Otte and Ron Goerss had 12 each. Bob Faulkner paced Rolla with 15.

The Washington University Jayvees defeated the Concordia B team, 57-40, in a preliminary.

Crimmins, Former Star At Notre Dame, Signed As Indiana Grid Coach

CINCINNATI, O., Jan. 12 (UP)—Bernie Crimmins was expected to pay a visit to the University of Indiana campus today "to get acquainted" with the institution which named him head football coach to succeed Clyde Smith.

The husky, ruddy-faced Louisville, Ky., Irishman who signed a five-year contract at a reported starting salary of $12,000 a year, termed his new job "a great opportunity."

Crimmins, a PT-boat commander in World War II, was assistant football coach at Notre Dame and a former grid star there, winning letters in three sports before his graduation in 1941.

His selection to the new post was announced yesterday after a telephone poll of Indiana's trustees.

His predecessor, Clyde Smith, had two years to go on his Indiana contract when he resigned under alumni pressure last Nov. 6, effective next April.

'Pro' Stars Play Bowl Contest

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 12 (UP)—On the tarpaulin covering Memorial Coliseum's gridiron rested the hopes of some 55,000 fans for a dry field today for the annual "blue chip" event of football—the pro bowl charity contest between the American and National All-Stars of professional football.

A dry field would guarantee a wide-open thriller. Pitted against the cream of the American Conference—led by Cleveland Passing Genius Otto Graham and bolstered by probably the greatest defensive lineup in football history—are the National Football League's leading aerial gainers, Bob Waterfield and Norman Van Brocklin. Behind this pair stands the threat of the nation's powerful running attack, spearheaded by the N.F.L.'s leading groundgainer, Deacon Dan Towler. The trio led the Los Angeles Rams to the N.F.L. championship this season.

High School Swim Results.

Cleveland and Beaumont were winners of high school swimming meets yesterday. Hadley was Cleveland's victim, 46 to 31, at Carondelet Y.M.C.A. pool; Beaumont defeated Soldan-Blewett, 62-15, at the Beaumont pool.

Televiewers Miss Post-Fight Fight

NEW YORK, Jan. 12 (AP.)—TELEVISION viewers of the Ernie Durando-Rocky Castellani bout missed most of the action in the ring after the fight.

The program ended as Tommy Ryan, Castellani's manager stormed into the ring and started after Referee Ray Miller.

U.S. Woman First in Swiss Skiing Feature

GRINDELWALD, Switzerland, Jan. 12 (UP)—Andrea Mead Lawrence of Rutland, Vt., boosted America's winter Olympic hopes today when she defeated 70 other stars from 13 countries in the giant slalom event in the Grindelwald ladies' ski championships.

Mrs. Lawrence, who was a close runner-up to Switzerland's Madelaine Berthod in the special slalom which opened the three-day meet yesterday, was timed in 43.8 seconds. The run was shortened considerably because of poor snow conditions.

Andree Bermond Tournier of France placed second, two-tenths of a second behind Mrs. Lawrence with a time of 44 seconds. World champion Trude Jochum Beiser of Austria was third with a time of 45.1 seconds.

Miss Berthod shared fourth place with Tull Gassman of Norway in today's event, both finishing in 45.2 seconds.

Stop Swanson Is Billiken's Battle Cry for Detroit Game

By Robert Morrison
Of the Post-Dispatch Sports Staff.

DETROIT, Jan. 12—Anything less than a three-game sweep on this trip will be less than satisfactory, St. Louis University Coach Eddie Hickey said here today.

The Billikens, the fifth-ranked college basketball team in the nation before they lost to Bradley at St. Louis last Wednesday, will open their eastern trip against Detroit University tonight at 7:15 (St. Louis time).

It will be the third Missouri Valley Conference game of the season for the Bills, who have yet to lose a league start. Their overall record is nine victories and three defeats. Detroit is twice beaten in conference play, a five-time loser in 12 games.

Currently in the lead in the Missouri Valley which the champion will become a contender for N.C.A.A. post-season honors, the Bills will make every effort not to stumble here.

They're Good at Home.

Detroit has lost only once at home this year — to Michigan State, a good club which has lost only to Iowa U. in nine games. The Spartans, who have conquered Denver, Marquette, Notre Dame and Northwestern among others, nosed out Detroit here, 52-47, Dec. 18.

Hickey expects his Billikens to become the second winner here this season over Detroit.

"I see no reason to become alarmed over this trip," he said, looking ahead to next Tuesday's game with N.Y.U. at Madison Square Garden and the Thursday encounter with Holy Cross at Boston.

"I think we can rise to the occasion as one of the leading representatives of midwest basketball. I feel confident our boys have the ability to win all three games."

Hickey added that the Billikens were in no mood to give up the game of basketball just because of the upset by Bradley.

Must Stop Swanson.

Against Detroit, the chief Billiken problem may be the stopping of Norm Swanson, Titan pivot star whose hook shooting has produced an average of about 19 points a game. Another factor will be the closely confined playing floor at the Detroit U. High alumni gymnasium. There, where bleachers are near the court boundaries, the Billikens of two years ago met defeat. They were troubled particularly in trying to make their fast break produce points.

But last year, the St. Louis U. team trimmed Detroit there, 64 to 50. The Bills had one advantage on that occasion. The aforementioned Swanson was not playing because he had become scholastically ineligible at mid-year.

While St. Louis has trimmed Houston and Wichita in conference games this season, Detroit has had less success against the same opponents. Playing two games at Houston, Detroit split with the Texans, then lost at Wichita. In their most recent start, the Titans lost to Drake which just previously had lost to Bradley.

On the trip to Wichita and Drake, however, Detroit had to play without one of its regular forwards, 6-foot-4 Don Berner, who was ill. Now the Titans could be a bit more Titanic than in those recent games.

Soccer Elevens Draw.

The Country Day and Principia Academy elevens played to a 1-1 draw in an ABC League soccer match on the Principia field yesterday. Roger Reynolds and Ed Bumann were the point scorers.

Hucul to Make Flyer Debut in Game Tonight

By Harold Flachsbart

Mud Bruneteau's Flyers, third in the American Hockey League's Western race, will be seeking their fourth straight victory when they meet the Pittsburgh Hornets, run-away leaders of that division, at The Arena tonight at 8:15.

An individual battle between the league's top goal scorers, Cliff Simpson of St. Louis and George Armstrong of Pittsburgh, could highlight the match. Simpson and Armstrong are not the top point-getters, because others have more assists, but their 23 goals each top the latest A.H.L. statistics.

Good defenses of both clubs, especially that of the Hornets, may hamper the sharp-shooters, however. Pittsburgh's goalie, Gil Mayer, is second best in the circuit with a 2.63 goals-against average. The Flyers have the fourth best defensive record among the nine clubs in both Eastern and Western divisions.

Latest "averages" had Armstrong tied for fifth in league scoring with 44 points and Simpson seventh with 20 assists to add to his 23 "red lights" for 43 points. Flyer Jackie Hamilton is only a notch behind because of 30 assists to go with 12 goals (42 points).

One new face in the St. Louis lineup will be that of Fred Hucul, defenseman on loan from Chicago. He had been working out here for the past 10 days to recuperate from a groin injury and tonight will spell Capt. Eddie Nicholson, sidelined with the flu.

Missing up front will be Steve Black because his knee is not yet ready for twisting and turning. Right Wing Harry Taylor will play for the first time in St. Louis since Dec. 5.

For Pittsburgh, Ray Hannigan will return to the lineup after a two-week absence and the Hornet defense has been strengthened by the return of Leo Boivan, one of the circuit's most promising recruits.

The Hornets widened their lead to 12 points with a 4-1 victory over the Hershey Bears before 4106 Pittsburgh fans, last night. The Hornets scored two goals in each of the first two periods and then coasted to victory. George Armstrong and Ray Hannigan scored the first period goals while Gordie Hannigan and Tim Horton tallied in the second period.

Pitcher Kinder Signs Contract With Boston

BOSTON, Jan. 12 (AP)—Right-hander Ellis Kinder, the Boston Red Sox' ace relief pitcher, yesterday came up from New Bedford to sign his 1952 contract. Kinder told General Manager Joe Cronin he was spending the off-season as a sporting goods salesman in a New Bedford department store.

Appearing in 63 games last season, Kinder compiled an 11-2 record. He worked a total of 127 innings, giving up 108 hits and 46 bases on balls and totaling 84 strikouts.

Earlier Cronin announced that First Baseman Walt Dropo had become the third Red Soxer to sign for next season. The others are Lefty Maury McDermott and Infielder Johnny Pesky.

Demaret's 74 Shows Way in Crosby Event

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif., Jan. 12 (UP)—Bing Crosby's $10,000 National Pro-amateur Golf tournament was called off today when rains turned the Monterey Peninsula Country Club course into a lake.

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif., Jan. 12 (AP)—A big wind blew scores sky high in the opening round of the Bing Crosby $10,000 National pro-amateur 54-hole golf tournament and left Jimmy Demaret in front with a plump 74.

Clearing weather was in prospect for today's second round over the par-72 Monterey Peninsula Country Club course. Tomorrow's third and final round will be on the Pebble Beach layout.

Rain and wind gusts up to 45 miles per hour defied the efforts of an outstanding field of pros and amateurs to equal or better par over the soaked, tough-to-play 72-par Cypress Point course today.

Demaret and screen-radio-comedian Bob Hope teamed for a best ball of 70 to share a second place tie in the pro-amateur doubles competition.

The pro-amateur competition was led by San Francisco's Art Bell and amateur William Hoelle with a best ball of 68.

Bell also was only a stroke off the medal play pace, being tied at 75 with pros Guinea Kop, Honolulu; Chuck Congdon, Tacoma, Wash.; and Al Brosch, Garden City, Long Island, N.Y.

Former golf kingpin Byron Nelson, who makes this event one of two or three he comes out of retirement for, had a first round 77. Lloyd Mangrum and Dr. Cary Middlecoff, both ex-United States Open title winners, needed 79 blows to complete the first round. Middlecoff, in fact, marked his ball and came in to ask if he could finish out today. He was sent back to struggle with the elements.

Webster Takes Lead in County

Webster Groves took undisputed possession of first place in the Suburban League by overcoming a six-point half-time deficit to defeat Clayton, 44-41, on the loser's court last night. Webster now has 3 and 0 in league play.

Guy Kahman again led Webster scorers with 17 points, while Eddie Diamond made 19 for Clayton. The Greyhounds had a 28-22 lead at the intermission.

In other Suburban matches, University City made its record 2-0 by topping Brentwood, 48-37, with the aid of Bud Cristal's 22 points; St. Charles nipped Ritenour, 47-41; Normandy came from behind to beat Wellston, 48-49; and Kirkwood won from Ferguson, 55-51, despite a 21-point spree by Ferguson's Arlie Temple.

In the Prep League, St. Louis U. High rolled on its merry way, whipping McBride, 62-34, with Les Hohl scoring 16 points; and DeAndreis slipped past C.B.C., 42-40. Lloyd Aubrey had 18 for DeAndreis.

New York Star To Compete in Silver Skates

Last-minute entrant for tomorrow's big Silver Skates carnival—one whose name won't even appear in the program—is New York's star representative, 23-year-old Bill Cooney.

The Manhattan speedster won the 1950 Metropolitan championship and was third in the New York Silver Skates carnival. The next year he won a Northern New York title and was runner-up in the Eastern seaboard meet, then earlier this year, finished fourth among outstanding Eastern skaters in Gotham's 1952 Silver Skates.

In the Arena program beginning at 2:15 tomorrow afternoon, Cooney is likely to be at his best at the shorter distance events, but to make a good showing in the Southwest Open division he will have to race the half mile, mile and two-mile events as well as the 440. There is no 220 for senior men.

The field here is topped by Champion Mario Trafeli of Detroit, State Champion Jim Hawkins (from Webster Groves and Camp Pendleton, Calif.) and St. Louis's topnotcher of the season, Sonny Rupprecht.

Another skater whose entry was received late and as a substitute is that of Ronald Fusek of West Allis, Wis. This 16-year-old intermediate replaces Mickey McGrath of West Allis, who came within an eyelash of winning top junior honors a year ago. Fusek was one of the leading juniors in national competition in 1951.

Macauley Will Be in Action in Game With Grads

Professional basketball, as played by the Boston Celtics, second placers in the eastern division of the National Basketball Association, will be on exhibition at St. Louis U. gym tonight, when Easy Ed Macauley and his mates oppose the St. Louis Grads.

In a preliminary game at 8 o'clock, Russo's Fats will meet Gold's Leans. The players are members of St. Louis B.P.O. Elks Lodge No. 9.

The program is being sponsored by the Elks for the benefit of the cerebral palsy fund.

Macauley and his mates came here from Indianapolis where last night they were defeated, 100 to 79, by the Caps in a league game. Easy Ed had nine field goals and one free throw for 19 points. Bob Cousy followed with 17.

The Grads, under player-coach Mike Todorovich, who played pro ball for the St. Louis Bombers and the Tri Cities Blackhawks, will feature local players, most of whom starred for Ed Hickey's Billikens the past three years. Such former stars as D. C. Wilcutt, Joe Ossola, Ed Scott, Lou Lehman, Marv Schatzman and Bill Gardiner will compete. The balance of the squad includes Elmer Das, standout local independent player; Jack Wuestling, ex-Billiken and Bob Murphy, formerly with the Boston Whirlwinds.

Officials will be Fred Broeg, St. Louis; Ed Davidson, St. Louis U.; Ed Oslek, St. Charles and Tony Marino, New York.

Bohn, Fredrickson Win.

Jim Bohn and Bill Fredrickson retained the South Side Y doubles handball title by defeating Henry and Lou Miller, 21-16, 13-21, 21-17.

Jones Tallies 30 Points But Central Loses

By Harold Tuthill

Favorites won so easily in the Public High League tripleheader last night at St. Louis University gymnasium that officials present spent most of the evening contemplating an all-star team from the eight city schools.

Cleveland gained its fourth league triumph and its thirteenth in an unbeaten season by defeating Central, 73-50, in the first game, McKinley was too powerful for Hadley Tech, 52-49, in the second contest and Soldan-Blewett won by almost the same score, 51-39, over Roosevelt.

The games themselves provided little interest, but there was a heated discussion about the relative merits of the players. Most were agreed Cleveland's Carl Scharffenberger is as good as they come. Lanky Carl southpawed in 26 points and took over the leagues scoring leadership with 71 points in four games.

In the same game in which "Scharf" put on another high-scoring exhibition, Central's Bob Jones registered 30 points to move into the runner-up spot with 68 points. After that game, somebody said wouldn't it be nice to have Scharffenberger and Jones on the same college team? Somebody else said how about Beaumont's Jim Withrow and Soldan's Marvin (Manne) Monroe?

Monroe Does His Stuff.

Withrow was not around to be watched because Beaumont was idle, but Monroe was and he gave the late stayer-uppers a treat. Manne went into the game tied for the lead with Scharffenberger but he ignored that as he passed off constantly to teammates. Especially to Bill Matthews who banged in 10 field goals and two free throws, the fielders coming mostly on slick passes from Monroe. Manne helped the Soldan cause with 10 points, but that left him 16 behind Scharffenberger, 71 to 55.

Another who received mention as an all-star was McKinley's Harold Alcorn. Walter Williams, league manager, said "I believe that boy could hit the basket with his eyes shut." Shut or open, accurate Alcorn collected 25 points and tied Cleveland's Augie Greiner for fifth place in the individual scoring race with 54 points. Roosevelt's Fred Saalfeld, in third place with 56 points, might have done better except for the good defensive job turned in by Soldan's 6-4 Bob Gross. Then, when Gross had four fouls called on him in the first half, Larry Sanders was assigned the job of annoying the 6-3 under-the-basket Roosevelt marksman.

Saalfeld was held to 15 points, considerably under the 22.5 average he had as the Rough Riders broke even in their first two league contests.

Soldan Pulls Away.

Roosevelt opened against Soldan-Blewett as if it might give the West Enders of Don Frankenberger some trouble. The score was tied at 2-2, and 8-8, but then Soldan pulled steadily away, leading at the quarter, 10-8, and at the half, 27-17.

McKinley, in second place with a 3-0 mark as compared to 4-0 for Cleveland, trailed Hadley by three points early in the game. The Goldbugs of Lawrence Buschmann drew up to a 3-all tie and finally went ahead, 5-3, with about 2½ minutes left in the opening quarter. . . . Late in the contest Hadley drew up to 47-33 but did not have enough power to catch the 'Bugs.

Cleveland really had its eye on the basket. The Dutchmen of Earl Jansen hit 51.6 per cent of their shots, almost as good as they did last Wednesday when they walloped St. Peter's of St. Charles, 82-47. . . . Thirty per cent is considered fairly good shooting.

INQUIRY IN BOYKIN AND FLO BRATTEN CASES SET ASIDE

Committee Head Says Justice Department Has Them — Hearings on Casey Ship Deals.

The New York Herald Tribune-Post-Dispatch Special Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12 — The Senate investigations subcommittee yesterday pigeonholed inquiries into two cases of alleged improper pressure and other wrongdoing involving Congress itself.

Senator Clyde R. Hoey (Dem.), North Carolina, the subcommittee chairman, announced that the subcommittee would, however, begin hearings in several weeks on the highly profitable deals in surplus tankers promoted by former Representative Joseph E. Casey (Dem.), Massachusetts.

These surplus ship ventures were also first uncovered by the Fulbright subcommittee in its investigation, but were turned over to the Hoey group when Casey alleged that the former subcommittee lacked jurisdiction.

Senator Hoey said Casey had indicated his willingness to testify at the hearings, which will cover the registration of the ships in Panama and the exemption of their operating profits from taxation. Others who profited from the venture presumably will be called as witnesses.

Two Cases Sidetracked.

The subcommittee, in the face of President Truman's repeated charges that Congress has been unwilling to investigate itself, decided unanimously to defer indefinitely any public hearings in the following two cases:

The activities of Mrs. Flo Bratten, secretary to Vice President Alben W. Barkley, and Charles E. Shaver, former counsel to the Senate Small Business Committee, who ejoined forces to promote Reconstruction Finance Corporation loans for a proposed luxury Florida hotel and other ventures.

The alleged involvment of Representative Frank W. Boykin (Dem.), Alabama, in RFC loans in the Stutts Lumber Industries, Inc., Thomasville, Ala., and the Mobile Paper Mill Co. Three persons were recently arrested in connection with the Stutts loan case.

Justice Department Inquiry.

Senator Hoey said the subcommittee had decided not to hold any public hearings immediately on these two cases because both were currently under investigation by the Department of Justice. He said the results of the subcommittee's investigations in both cases had been turned over to the department.

The Senator thus disclosed for the first time that the Justice Department is looking into the activities of Shaver, who resigned from his Small Business Committee post after it was revealed that he and Mrs. Bratten had intervened in RFC loan cases.

Senator Hoey said the Justice Department was seeking to determine whether Shaver had accepted compensation from clients while on the Senate's payroll in violation of the law. He emphasized, however, that the Justice Department investigation did not also include Mrs. Bratten. The subcommittee reportedly found no evidence that Mrs. Bratten had accepted any money or gifts for her help to RFC borrowers.

Effect on Barkley Considered.

It was learned from other sources, however, that the subcommittee's decision was based in part on the reluctance of its members to hold any hearings which might, at least inferentially, embarrass Vice President Barkley.

The subcommittee's decision not to hold hearings in the RFC loan cases involving Representative Boykin marked the third time he has escaped from the full-scale disclosure of his alleged efforts to bring pressure on Government agencies.

The Fulbright subcommittee also investigated these loans, but turned the cases over to the Hoey group without holding hearings. Representative Boykin's name also cropped up in the Internal Revenue Bureau hearings of the House Ways and Means subcommittee, but he was not called for questioning.

Senator Hoey said the Justice Department was looking into phases of the Stutts loan case other than those involved in the recent arrest of three persons in connection with an alleged $800,000 shortage in a Thomasville (Ala.) bank.

Such an inquiry presumably will cover the questions of whether former RFC directors knew that the Stutts loan was to be used to cover up an earlier bank shortage and whether they failed to call this to the attention of federal bank examiners.

$105 THEFT AT BOWLING ALLEY

Theft of $105 from St. George's Bowling Alley, 4975 Heege road, Gardenville, was reported to the St. Louis county sheriff's office last night by Harry Schwer, manager. Officers could find no evidence of forced entry into the building. A padlock had been broken on a drawer containing the money.

COUNTY TRAFFIC DIVISION URGED AS SPEEDING CURB

Creation of Bureau, Similar to One Operating in City, Also to Be Recommended.

Establishment of a traffic division, manned by deputy sheriffs and deputy constables, and creation of a traffic bureau in St. Louis county to cope with the increasing problem of speeding in unincorporated areas will be recommended to the County Council, Chairman Harold D. Carey said yesterday.

The proposed traffic bureau would be similar to that now operating in the St. Louis Police Department and would permit traffic law violators to pay penalties without going into court. Such violations are handled in magistrate court in the county.

Carey said the recommendations will be made to the council by the body's special traffic committee, headed by him. The committee will suggest appointment of additional deputies, whose duties would be restricted to traffic problems. How many additional men the committee will propose, he said, will depend on the amount of money which could be allocated for salaries.

Appointed by Council.

The traffic bureau would be headed by a man appointed by the Council, who, in addition to operating the office, would be required to study traffic problems and recommend solution of them. Provision for establishment of the traffic division and bureau is contained in the proposed county traffic code, pending in the Council.

Traffic conditions in the county were criticized by the circuit court grand jury earlier this week. In its report, the jury said instances were found of transport trucks traveling 50 miles an hour and passenger automobiles going 80 miles an hour in school, residential and congested business districts in the unincorporated sections of the county.

The report also criticized the "abuse of authority" by police officers in some of the smaller municipalities and the "very poor co-ordination of traffic regulations among county municipalities."

To Request Study.

Mayor Norman Myers of Overland, president of the St. Louis County League of Municipalities, said he would ask the league to study the jury's complaints about traffic regulation in the towns and advocate corrective action.

"We want to follow the recommendations and advice of the grand jury," he said, adding that, if the traffic code adopted by the County Council for the unincorporated sections is a good one, he believed the league would favor action by the municipalities to make their traffic codes conform with it."

SYMINGTON AGREES TO STAY AWHILE AT MAYBANK REQUEST

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12 (AP)—Senator Maybank (Dem.), South Carolina, said yesterday that at his request W. Stuart Symington of St. Louis has agreed to stay on as Reconstruction Finance Corporation administrator for a few days longer than he had planned.

President Truman announced last week that he had accepted Symington's resignation as head of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, effective Tuesday. Truman has nominated Harry McDonald, who has been serving as chairman of the Securities and Exchange Commission, to succeed Symington. The Senate Banking Committee, which Maybank heads, plans to start hearings on the McDonald appointment Wednesday.

Maybank told a reporter: "At my request, Mr. Symington has agreed to stay on for a few days for the good of the country so the RFC won't be left without an administrator even temporarily."

NEWSPAPER SAYS STALIN HAD HEART OPERATION, IS FAILING

AMSTERDAM, Jan. 12 (UP)—A Dutch newspaper said yesterday that Soviet Prime Minister Joseph Stalin underwent a heart muscle operation last Dec. 19.

The Nieuwe Rotterdamsche Courant in a dispatch from its Berlin correspondent said Stalin was operated on two days before his seventy-second birthday, according to a report received by the Soviet embassy in Berlin. The report said Stalin's condition improved at first, but grew worse a few days ago.

Stalin is in a health resort near Gori, in Georgia, the newspaper said. It reported that a number of Soviet cabinet ministers and Communist Party Politburo members had gone to Georgia.

Red Plot to Kill U.S. Envoy In Spain Reported Thwarted

Hundreds of Special Police Guard Griffis on Trip to Valencia After Anonymous Tip.

STANTON GRIFFIS

MADRID, Jan. 12 (AP)—United States Ambassador Stanton Griffis was back in Madrid today from a trip to Valencia—a trip on which hundreds of Spanish special guards and a big Army pistol in his pocket guarded him against a reported Communist assassination plot.

Griffis said an anonymous tipster disclosed the plot, which he attributed to Communists, two weeks ago. The American embassy notified Spanish authorities before he left on the motor trip. He returned last night.

The Spanish Government posted civil guards and police armed with sub-machine guns every half mile along the 200-mile-road to Valencia. In some spots, regarded as particularly likely for an ambush, the guards were only 100 yards apart.

Detectives in a motor convoy accompanied the ambassador's car to Valencia Thursday. Five motorcycle police met the cavalcade outside the city and, with sirens clearing a way, escorted Griffis to his hotel. Police ringed him the two days he was in town.

In Valencia he visited an American Navy squadron and went aboard the carrier Franklin D. Roosevelt for a short time.

Griffis is scheduled to sail from Gibraltar Jan. 26 to testify before the United States Senate Foreign Relations Committee on American relations with Spain.

The ambassador has been negotiating with the Spanish for United States naval and air bases that may be linked with general western European defense plans. He also has been chosen to co-ordinate American military and economic missions supervising aid to Spain. Generalissimo Francisco Franco's Government will receive at least $100,000,000 under the seven billion dollar Mutual Security Act.

Last night Spain joined in the western boycott on sending strategic goods to Soviet bloc countries, as required of nations receiving United States aid.

SYMPHONY HAS FILLIP IN 'ONE-HORSE SHAY'

Max Brand's Composition Has Action, Charm and Is Played Smartly.

By THOMAS B. SHERMAN

"The Wonderful One-Horse Shay" by Max Brand, a Vienna-born composer now living in the United States, gave a fillip of novelty to an otherwise conventional program at yesterday afternoon's St. Louis Symphony Orchestra concert in Kiel Auditorium.

Brand's composition was inspired by the familiar Oliver Wendell Holmes poem and there were enough homely references in it to establish its connection with the title even though the idiom was prevailingly modern. Occasional descriptive passages suggested the jog-trot of a horse-drawn vehicle, country dancing and a generally bucolic atmosphere. Aside from these it was a set of subjective impressions cast in rondo form, but with plain implications that something active was happening. The basic theme was a tone-row of 12 successive notes which was used in the manner of the 12-tone writers; that it was played straight, upside down and backward. Its feeling was mostly tonal, however, and the dissonant stretches were judiciously relieved by smoother harmonies and the wind-up was sweet and serene.

Altogether it had action, charm and piquancy and the orchestra under Conductor Vladimir Golschmann played it smartly.

Golschmann and the orchestra also gave optimum performances in the rest of the program. The opening measures of the Mozart G-Minor Symphony, limpid, fluent and graceful with a delicate lift at the phrase endings was indicative of the measured but relaxed treatment of the whole. In its living presence the listener could forget that he had heard it 50 or 500 times before. But if the G Minor was as self-renewing as one more spring the same may hardly be said of Gaspodin Rimsky-Korsakoff's "Scheherazade." It was still a picture-book but with faded colors.

For the sake of the record it must be added however that the orchestra—and the first-desk men from Concertmaster Farbman all the way through—gave it their best. The orchestra had an opulent composite sound and the strings in particular, a consistent sheen.

Ravel's "La Valse" was energetic, and incisive in detail, and Mozart's "Marriage of Figaro" had its usual crispness. As a memorial to the late Clifford W. Gaylord the orchestra played, at the beginning of the concert the Air from Bach's "Suite in D Major."

The concert will be repeated tonight.

PLAQUE AT STATION KFUO DEDICATED TO DR. MAIER

A bronze memorial plaque was dedicated yesterday to the late Dr. Walter A. Maier, founder and speaker of the International Lutheran Hour broadcasts, on the second anniversary of his death. The ceremonies were held at Radio Station KFUO on the Concordia Seminary campus in Clayton.

DE LATTRE GIVEN POSTHUMOUS TITLE OF FRENCH MARSHAL

PARIS, Jan. 12 (AP)—The French. Government today gave the posthumous title of Marshal of France, the nation's highest honor, to Gen. Jean de Lattre de Tassigny.

The 62-year-old general, commander in chief and high commissioner to Indochina, died late yesterday.

The French cabinet held a solemn meeting this morning and arranged to give him a full military funeral Wednesday.

After the funeral, a cortege will drive with the body to the little village of Mouilleron Enpareds, his birthplace, where he is to be buried beside his son Bernard, a lieutenant in the French army, who was killed in Indochina.

The body will be taken to the Invalides late today to lie in state with an honor guard.

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower said he had lost a "precious friend."

The Allied supreme commander said De Lattre's command of the French First Army during World War II and later service in Indochina "was always brilliant and exemplary. France and the free world together will feel the loss of this widely known soldier and personality."

MAN, 74, BEATEN AND ROBBED

Julius G. Winkelmeyer, 74 years old, was beaten severely and robbed of $20 today in a confectionery he operates at 1937½ North Broadway, he reported to police.

He told officers that the robber first ordered some potatoes and then grabbed him from behind and threatened him with a butcher knife that had been lying on a counter. The robber then struck Winkelmeyer several times on the head with a blackjack and kicked him in the abdomen after he fell to the floor, the victim reported. The robber took the money from a cash register and fled.

MAYOR MAKES APPEAL FOR SYMPHONY DRIVE

Campaign Most Critical Because Reserves Are Exhausted, He Declares.

Mayor Joseph M. Darst today voiced an appeal for generous support of the current drive to raise $175,000 for the St. Louis Symphony Society maintenance fund.

"While this is an annual campaign," he said, "the 1952 drive is the most critical in the orchestra's history. Since all reserve funds of the St. Louis Symphony Society have been exhausted, all future operations will have to be paid for from money secured through the drive.

"Ticket sales supply only about half of a symphony orchestra's needed revenue. Even if our orchestra played to full houses at every concert throughout the season, we still would need a maintenance fund to meet a major part of our budget.

"Failure of the current drive will mean either loss of our orchestra—the sort of tragedy experienced only three seasons ago by Detroit—or drastic reduction in the personnel of the orchestra and the programs it presents. Either would be a major loss, for a scaled-down orchestra simply cannot perform the services, or carry the prestige, of a major-sized symphony orchestra. And the orchestra, it must be remembered, is a commercial as well as cultural asset to the community. Only last spring the noted critic, Deems Taylor, conservatively ranked it among the top 10 symphony orchestras of the country.

"Although the orchestra is not tax-supported, it belongs to all in the community, and deserves the support of everyone. Every contribution, large or small, will be applied to the fund which will keep this great organization the vital force in our community it has been for 72 seasons. Together, we must see this campaign through to a successful conclusion."

U.S. REJECTS NEW RUSSIAN ATTACK ON SECURITY ACT

State Department Stands by Previous Reply, Denying Anti-Soviet Activity.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12 (AP)—The United States has bluntly rejected a second Russian protest that dollars earmarked for stemming Communism in Europe actually are being spent for subversive anti-Soviet activity.

The new complaint, similar to one brushed aside by this country Dec. 20, was handed to the United States Embassy in Moscow three days ago. The note, printed in full by the Soviet press, calls for repeal of the Mutual Security Act.

This law, passed in the last session of Congress, replaced the Marshall Plan on Jan. 1. It provides funds for Europe's growing rearmament and for aiding victims of Communism.

In Washington, Lincoln White of the State Department, said:

"We rejected the new Russian allegations completely and stood by our previous answer."

'Singular Ill-Grace.'

When Russia first protested, the United States denied it was behind any subversive activity aimed at the Soviets. Besides, it said, such "false charges . . . come with singular ill-grace" from a Government which for years "supported subversive activities" against the United States.

The original protest contended a $100,000,000 appropriation, included in the Mutual Security Act to help victims of Communist rule, constituted subversion against the U.S.S.R.

The new note labeled the act "aggressive" and in violation of the Roosevelt-Litvinoff agreement of 1933 establishing diplomatic relations between the two countries. It was in answer to the United States reply of Dec. 20 and said:

"Taking into consideration that the law of Oct. 10, 1951, represents an unheard of violation of the norms of international law and a cruel violation of the Soviet-American agreement of Nov. 16, 1933, and is an aggressive act toward the U.S.S.R., the Soviet government considers it necessary again to declare that the responsibility for such actions fully lies on the Government of the United States and insists on repeal of the above named law."

Previous Denunciation.

In denouncing the Russian charges previously, the State Department said the appropriation was in keeping with the American policy of helping the oppressed, "in this instance, those eastern Europeans who have escaped or may escape to the free world."

Soviet complaints, it said, were aimed at disrupting defense efforts of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization through false propaganda.

Russia's new note called the American reply "contrary to fact." It said the United States was unable to refute "the indubitable affirmations advanced in the Soviet note of Nov. 21" and had "resorted to fabrication and slander against the Soviet Union."

In Paris yesterday, the United Nations General Assembly voted down, 42 to 5, with 11 abstentions, a Soviet proposal that the U.N. demand the United States repeal the Mutual Security Act.

PING IN AUTO? OCTANE RATING OF FUEL LOWEST IN 2 YEARS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12 (UP)—That pinging automobile engine may be the result of a drop in octane ratings of gasoline sold at service stations last summer.

The Bureau of Mines reported today that octane ratings fell to their lowest point since the winter of 1949-50, chiefly because of Government restrictions on lead which is used in making tetraethyl lead, a component of gasoline, and increasing demands for aviation gasoline.

The octane rating on premium-priced gasoline averaged 89.7 last summer, compared with 90.3 six months earlier. The rating of regular gasoline averaged 82.5, compared with 83.7 in the winter of 1950-51.

NORWAY TO KEEP ON BUILDING UP ITS DEFENSES, KING SAYS

OSLO, Jan. 12 (AP)—King Haakon, in a speech opening Parliament, said today Norway will continue to build up its military defenses.

The speech, written by the government for the monarch, was in effect a rebuff to neighboring Russia, which has recently warned Norway against adhering to the North Atlantic alliance. The King said:

"Norway, as a member of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, will carry its proportional burdens of the development of the joint defense of the democratic nations. The government considers it to be its first duty to safeguard the national independence."

BOARD GROUP STUDIES PLAN FOR BARTMER AV. REZONING

A proposal to change the zoning restrictions along Bartmer avenue from Belt to Goodfellow avenues from single-family residential to multi-family residential dwellings was taken under advisement yesterday by the aldermanic Committee on Zoning after a public hearing.

The proposed change, if enacted, would permit the use of existing single-family residences for lodging house purposes and would permit the construction in the area of two- and four-family flats. Opponents of the measure stated at the hearing that the proposed rezoning would depreciate the value of existing properties in the area.

In Hollywood

Actress' Twin Signed 'On Her Looks Alone'

By Harold Heffernan

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.

SIGHTS AND SOUNDS: So long as John Ford directs pictures, Maureen O'Hara's two brothers, fresh from Ireland a few months ago, will continue their Hollywood careers. Ford has the two boys, carrying the names of Jim Lilburn and Charles Fitz Simons, working in his modernized version of "What Price Glory" the 20th-Fox. They are a handsome, stalwart pair and Ford was well pleased with their debut in his "The Quiet Man," made at Republic, with Maureen herself starring.

MARISSA PAVAN

Another "relative" casting in "What Price Glory" is Marissa Pavan, twin sister of Pier Angeli, the pert young Italian actress MGM is grooming straight for stardom. Marissa, who took the name of a girl friend in Italy rather than trade on her sister's reputation, has never had a moment's dramatic experience and was signed on her looks alone. She is playing the part of a French schoolgirl in the movie.

Her arm in a cast and a sling, Pier dropped over to visit and told how she suffered a fractured bone while performing what amounted to a very dangerous stunt. This was for a sequence in "Equilibrium," first of a three-episode film titled "Three Love Stories." Playing the role of a trapese artist, Pier slipped and fell off the bar to the floor, a distance of 15 feet. For some reason, no net was provided nor were any other precautions taken to prevent any such accident that might readily befall an amateur at the game.

★ ★ ★

ON THE SUBJECT of director Ford, who can be as grim as they come on a movie set, Corinne Calvet, his heroine in "What Price Glory," seems to have schemed up a method of studying his whims of the moment better than anyone else we know. Corine diagnoses Ford by what happens to his pipe, which is seldom out of his mouth.

"The way he smokes it," the French actress asserts, "is a clue to his feelings. When it's sending up as much smoke as a smudge pot that means he's irritated.

"Leisurely smoke rings ascending with rhythmic frequency show complete delight with the way things are taking place.

"When he's biting on the stem the actors had better watch their step. The highest accolade an actor can possibly receive is when Mr. Ford is so entranced with a performance that he lets his pipe go out."

SUCCESS AFTER YEARS or struggle and indecision have made a supremely confident woman of Joan Crawford. Proof of this comes in the battle she is now waging to obtain television rights on her new contract—at $150,000 per picture—with Warner Brothers. Most bitter of all the studios over TV, Warners will fight this angle to the end, but Joan can be counted on to wear them down.

The oddity about this attitude of Joan's, however, is that a dozen years ago she was frightened to death of radio and turned down several handsome offers that would have starred her on a weekly show. She admittedly had the worst case of microphone fright in the movie colony. And yet today she can't wait to take that projected TV plunge.

WHEN HE COMPLETES his starring role in "Francis Goes to West Point," Donald O'Connor will take his wife, Gwen, to Europe for a vacation, marking the first time he has gone abroad for purely recreational purposes.

Nine pounds heavier than ever, Donald is getting to look more like a romantic leading man than a comedian and is ready for almost any kind of movie role. Prospects for a variety of parts are very bright, too. Prominent among future roles is the part of Fred Astaire in the life story of the great dancer. Fred has gone on record as recommending O'Connor.

★ ★ ★

CHARLIE CHAPLIN, whose marriages and various escapades have furnished some of Hollywood's spiciest reading for the last 35 years, is now being publicized as the town's greatest "Family man." He acts the part, too.

Each noon on the set of his current "Limelight," Charlie's fourth wife, Oona O'Neil, leaves her home and four children to bring him his lunch—vegetables and fruit, we are informed. Further, Charlie no longer smokes, seldom takes a drink (and then only a light wine) and the night spots wouldn't recognize him. He still has a brief Sunday-morning whirl at tennis with his old pal, Tim Durant, but that's all for exercise. Rest of the time it's strictly home atmosphere, we're reminded again.

Try and Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

SONGWRITER PETER DONALD wires that he saw a sign outside a Broadway music shop that informed passersby, "Out to lunch: bebop in 15 minutes." Donald adds, "I guess an old-fashioned dancing master could announce, 'Out to lunch; back in 15 minuets.'"

A SAN FRANCISCO mother suggested to Pop that they give their 10-year-old unmanageable a bicycle for his birthday. "Do you think that will improve his behavior?" asked Pop. "Nothing can do that," said the mother resignedly, "but a bicycle will at least spread it over a wider area."

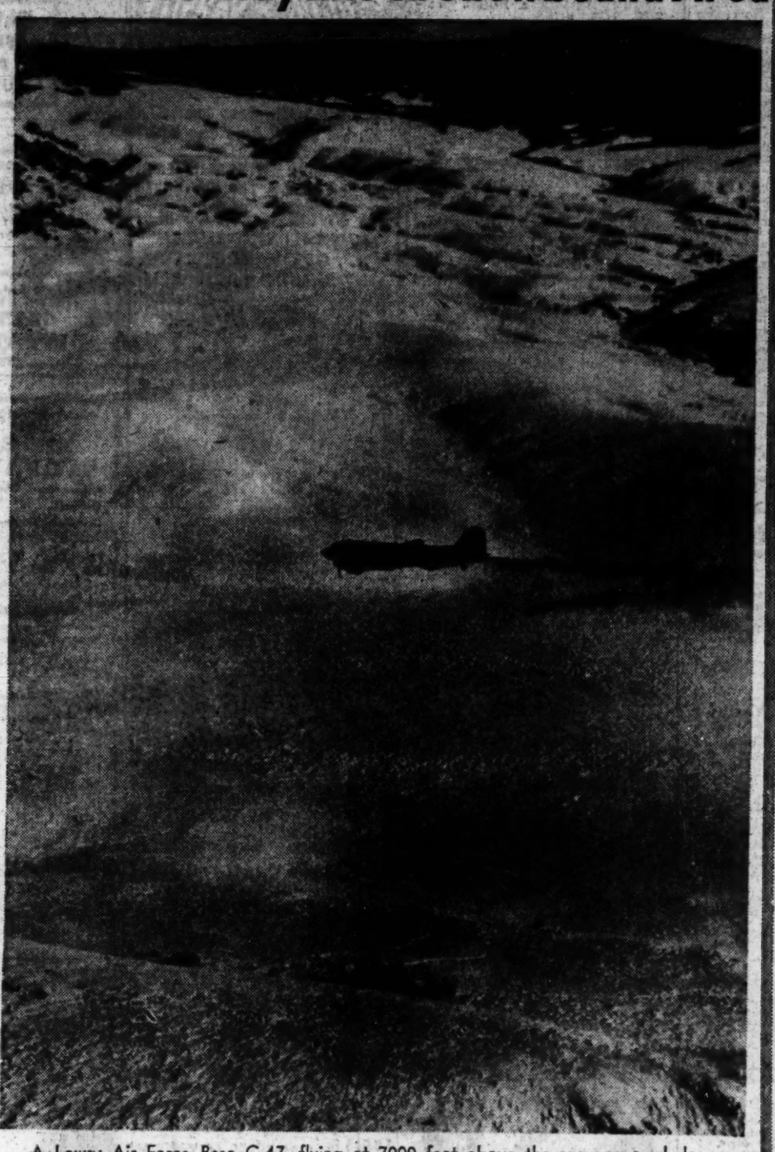
Air Force 'Hay Lift' in Snowbound Area



A Lowry Air Force Base C-47, flying at 7000 feet above the snow-covered slopes near Gunnison, Colo., dropping hay to stranded herds. The hay may be seen trailing streamers behind the plane. Deer for which the feed is destined are faintly visible at lower left. Below, two airmen prepare to dump another bale to the snowbound animals. Portions of rough terrain are visible through door. PARENTS WELCOME SEA HERO

Capt. Kurt Carlsen, doughty skipper of the freighter Flying Enterprise, carries bouquet of flowers as, flanked by police officers, he walks to the City Hall at Falmouth, English south coast port, for ceremonies in tribute to his daring and devotion to duty in the futile attempt to save his storm-stricken vessel. To the right of Carlsen is his proud father, Martin Carlsen (head turned), who flew from Denmark to welcome his son yesterday. In photo at right, the captain's mother, Mrs. Karen Carlsen, clasping flowers given her by admirers, embraces the 37-year-old skipper. At left is Kenneth Dancy, first mate of the tug Turmoil, who served as Carlsen's "crew" during the last six days of the two-week Atlantic saga. —Associated Press Radiophotos.

FLIES TO CHILDREN

For James Giovanetto, Navy communications technician, a 12,000-mile flight from Japan ends in reunion with his ailing children, 2½-year-old Jamie and 7-month-old Delaine, at Pekin, Ill. Giovanetto was flown home after his wife made an appeal through the Red Cross when the children's condition became serious. Delaine has a bronchial infection and Jamie is suffering from a blood disease. —Associated Press Wirephoto.

SPEEDY DISPOSAL OF CHRISTMAS TREES

A speedy solution to the problem of disposing of Christmas trees, as carried out yesterday by youngsters of the neighborhood centering about the 7000 block of Northmoor drive, University City. Above, boys tossing trees on one of the large stacks prepared for the torch. At right, dried-out trees go up in a flash after University City firemen, who supervised, touched off the blaze. —By a Post-Dispatch Staff Photographer.

Knothole Justice.

LOS ANGELES — It was a knotty problem Municipal Judge Roger Pfaff had to solve, and he solved it at a knothole.

Sixteen gambling suspects were in court. The arresting officer said he acted after watching through a hole in the fence. Attorneys for the youth contended the knothole wasn't big enough to see through.

The judge adjourned court, went out to take a look, satisfied himself and ordered the 16 bound over to superior court for trial.

Snack Whets Appetites.

PITTSBURGH, Pa. — Thieves had a snack in a Pittsburgh meat market — a mere appetizer for what followed.

Albert Pantone, manager of Mack's Supermarket, found two empty coffee cups when he opened for business. There also was evidence someone had enjoyed a few ham sandwiches.

Then Pantone found he had little meat to sell.

Missing from the market were: 60 pounds of bologna, 100 pounds of salami, two cases of spiced ham, a tray of chuck roast, two 100-pound cases of chicken—and several choice T-bone steaks, the kind that sell for around $1.23 a pound.

Scare Costs $50.

McKEESPORT, Pa.—Peter Joseph Radzvin got tired of music in a tavern below his second-floor apartment. He picked up an unloaded shotgun, entered the tavern and demanded:

"Stop the music. I'm tired of it."

The music stopped. Someone called police. Then Radzvin paid a $50 fine for disturbing the peace.

Radzvin told a magistrate: "All I wanted to do was scare the band members."

DR. WILSON COMPTON SLATED FOR TOP U.S. INFORMATION JOB

SPOKANE, Wash., Jan. 12 (AP)—Dr. Wilson Compton, director of the United States advisory commission on information for the State Department, will be named head of all United States foreign information activities, the Spokesman-Review said last night.

The newspaper did not name the source of its information. Compton was president of Washington State College before taking the State Department job last September. He is a brother of Arthur H. Compton, chancellor of Washington University, St. Louis.

The paper said Compton will take over a newly-created position that will give him responsibility for overseas information activities including "the press, publications, motion pictures and exchange of persons, as well as the Voice of America."

Martha Carr's OPINION

Dear Martha Carr:

MY father always reads my mail. When I was a kid I did not care but now I am getting older and am tired of it. I feel I have the right to the privacy of my own correspondence. I have spoken to him about it but he claims he does not read it. I know he does. I have asked Mother to talk to him about this but they work different shifts and she is not home when the mail comes, or when he is up and around. What can I do about this? J. O.

Unless you have been making friends among boys or girls of whom your father disapproves, and he feels because of past conduct he needs to keep an eye on your correspondence, I agree that it should be your own private affair. Half of the fun in receiving a letter is in being the first to open it and in knowing it is all meant especially for you. How do you know he reads your letters? Surely he would not deny it. Speak to him again about it and get your mother to talk to him, too. I am sure when he understands how you feel about it he will agree your mail should be exclusively your own.

★ ★ ★

Dear Martha Carr:

I HAVE A STEP-FATHER. I don't know whether he actually hates me but he is always hitting me. My grandmother lives with us and if she tries to take my part he and my mother turn on her and talk so mean to her that she ends up in tears. He and my mother both tell all kinds of untrue things about me and I am getting to the point where I hate them both. What can I do? DISGUSTED.

Sometimes when a young person is angry he tends to exaggerate and being hit occasionally turns into being hit all the time! However, your step-father should not strike you but should use a more reasonal type of punishment when you are in need of discipling. If the home situation is as bad as you state, go with your grandmother to one of the social agencies such as the Family and Childrens Service, 4643 Lindell boulevard and talk matters over with one of the workers there. I am sure she can help you.

★ ★ ★

IN ANSWER TO "Us Girls": If they are sponsored by some reputable organization such as the "Y," for instance, or your church, there is nothing wrong with going to these dances, and there is no reason why anyone should look down on you for going—providing you behave yourselves properly of course.

★ ★ ★

IN ANSWER to "J.M.": Listen to those little inward words of warning. They are your safeguard. Stop going with this boy or with any others like him. There are too many decent ones around for a decent girl to waste her time on his type.

Parents' Dream Child

By Angelo Patri

ONE of the most difficult problems a schoolteacher has to meet is the one in which the parent insists that he has one sort of child while the child plainly proclaims he is another sort entirely. The teacher wants to go along with the pupil he has, the parent wants him to create the dream child he insists upon having. The pupil is torn between the two forces, his parents' dream and his own nature.

Many a parent longs to fulfill his broken dream in the life of his child. It is rarely possible for anybody to live again in the life of another. Each of us is given his own chance at life, just that one, no more. Any attempt to be reincarnated in the form of one's child is doomed to failure, most painful failure, from the start.

★ ★ ★

USUALLY SUCH AN AMBITION calls for a star performance on the child's side. Never mind if he has no talent of the kind. Never mind that he indicates skill, talent, high ability in another direction. He must stop being himself and be the dream creature his fond parent projects as his own greatness. No good comes of it, nothing but discord, disruption and estrangement.

A boy does well in his high school course and his father is delighted. He decides once more that the law, or medicine, or engineering, whatever his youthful ambition had chosen, is the course his son shall take. Son is dismayed. He thought he had made it plain all along, that he wanted to be a business man. He has no taste for anything else. Business is his career.

The resultant struggle drives the boy from home, brings grief to his family, distress and bewilderment to him. Even if, in the end, his father gives up grudgingly, the scars of battle remain to ache and smart at a touch of memory.

★ ★ ★

YES, CHILDREN, YOUTH, need guidance. They will accept it just so far but when the limit is reached they rebel. They must if they are intelligent.

There is in every high-school graduate a hard core of personality of character. He will go along cheerfully with his leaders until that core is threatened. Then he will balk.

When that happens teacher or parent must stop, take another look, let the student talk while he listens, for this is the real person talking now. It is time to go along with him, not to try to make him follow a road alien to his feet.

'Not Speaking'

By Christopher Billopp

WHEN people fall out, a popular way of showing their displeasure with each other is not speaking.

If people are not speaking now it goes without saying that they must have been speaking before. And if they were speaking before the chances are that they were good friends and had good friends in common.

★ ★ ★

WHEN PEOPLE are no longer speaking it takes a little time for the word to get around. In consequence their mutual friends may be unaware of the changed circumstances. So if they are thinking of having a party and want it to be a congenial one they will ask people to it who are not speaking.

After the invitations have gone out it is possible that friends to whom the news has been broken will intervene. They will say, "Didn't you know they are not speaking?" Then, unless there is to be an embarrassing situation, one or the other of the nonspeaking groups will have to be uninvited.

Either that or the party will have to be expanded to the point where there are so many guests that the people who are not speaking will be lost in the crowd. Even then there is always a danger that they will meet on the front doorstep, or on the stairs or in a dressing room.

★ ★ ★

IT IS INCONVENIENT to have friends who are not speaking. For every time an entertainment is planned steps must be taken to keep those who are not speaking apart. However, if time and attention are given to the problem a solution is possible.

How annoying it is when, with infinite pains, the design of an entertainment is worked out assuming that friends are not speaking, to be told at the last minute, "Why didn't you know? They have made up."

Try Avocados For a Sunday Night Salad

By Edith M. Barber

THE avocado still retains a little glamour. Although no longer in the luxury class as it was when it first began to come on the market, it is still a treat to us. No gift that I received at Christmas time was more appreciated than a box of this pear-like fruit.

When they arrived, the pears were not ripe enough to eat. By keeping some of them at room temperature and putting others in the refrigerator, I have been enjoying them for several weeks, most of them have been used at parties. Nothing adds more to a salad nor makes a more attractive appetizer than the avocado that was once known as the alligator pear. California has coined a name to describe the fruit that is cultivated so well in that state. Most of the calavos are large, with dark green skins and firm, yellowish green flesh.

As the avocados ripen, the skins darken. Care must be taken that the fruit is not bruised as this causes spoilage. One of the most attractive ways of serving is to halve them. After the large pit is removed, the centers should be sprinkled with lemon juice. Halved avocados filled with diced fruit and drenched with French dressing and served on a bed of lettuce are a good choice for Sunday night supper. With them, hot bran biscuits are particularly suitable, as the crisp texture contrasts so well with that of the fruit.

Alternate slices of avocado and grapefruit garnished with strips of scarlet pimiento make attractive individual servings. A few slices in a tossed green salad to which has been added chilled, cooked rice, are an asset. Another interesting method of treating the avocado is to fill the halves with creamed shrimp or other fish before baking in a hot oven.

Avocado Rice Salad.

Combine chilled, cooked rice with an equal amount of diced avocado and minced onion to taste. Mix lightly with well seasoned sour cream and serve on bed of lettuce.

Bran Buttermilk Biscuits.

One-half cup ready-to-eat bran, three-fourths cup buttermilk, one and one-half cups sifted flour, one teaspoon baking powder, one-half teaspoon soda, one teaspoon salt, one-third cup shortening.

Soak ready-to-eat bran in buttermilk. Sift dry ingredients together. Cut in shortening until mixture is like coarse cornmeal. Add soaked bran and stir until dough is well blended. Turn onto floured board and knead lightly. Roll or pat to one-half inch thickness and cut with floured cutter. Bake on lightly greased pan in preheated hot oven (450 degrees) about 12 minutes. Yield: 12 biscuits (two and one-half inches in diameter). Note: If sweet milk is used instead of buttermilk, omit soda and increase baking powder to three teaspoons.

Answers to Problems on Social Usage

By Emily Post

TODAY'S first letter is from a mother of small children. She writes: "We have moved from the city to the country. All the neighbors and tradespeople drive up to the house and blow their car horns instead of ringing the bell. I find it very annoying for many times they wake my sleeping children. How is the best way to handle this situation without offending anyone?"

The only thing I know to suggest is to have a sign made that you can put out temporarily, reading: "Please do not blow horn, children sleeping!"

★ ★ ★

DEAR MRS. POST: When we have guests, or even when our family is alone, is it considered bad manners to continue eating while someone is talking? I always feel rude when I keep on eating when someone is talking, and at the same time I hate cold food.

Answer: I have never heard of this suggestion before. Continue eating while listening, of course, but take small amounts in your mouth so that you can swallow quickly when you must answer.

★ ★ ★

DEAR MRS. POST: A neighbor of ours died recently and instead of sending flowers to the funeral my husband and I sent flowers to the widow after the funeral. A friend of mine criticized me for doing this and said she had never heard of anyone's doing this before. Will you please tell me if we were wrong?

Answer: You were entirely right. I think the friendship expressed by your flowers sent to her after all the others had been taken away must have been especially comforting.

Brain Game

FAMOUS quotations are the subject of today's quiz. Four correct is excellent.

1. Whom did Thomas Jefferson warn not to allow his name to be a "blot on the pages of history?"
2. What body of soldiers was warned, according to legend, "Don't fire unless fired upon?"
3. Who said "God reigns and the Government at Washington still lives?"
4. Before what group did Patrick Henry say, "If this is treason, make the most of it?"
5. "This is the forest primeval" is a quotation from what poem?
6. "Give me your tired, your poor . . ." is a line on what famous statue?

ANSWERS.

1. King George III. 2. The Minute Men. 3. James A. Garfield, after Lincoln's assassination. 4. Virginia Assembly. 5. "Evangeline." 6. Statue of Liberty.

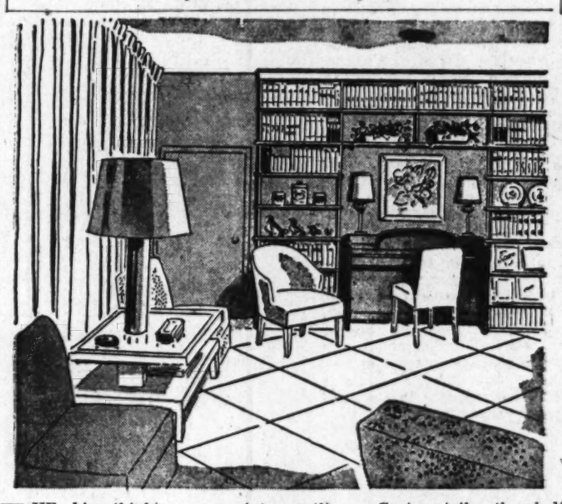
They'll Do It Every Time

By Jimmy Hatlo

Designing Woman

The Other End of a Room

By Elizabeth Hillyer



THE big thinking goes into planning the center of interest in the living room, into the arrangement around the fireplace. However, once this plotting is done, what then? Are you faced with a problem at the other end of the room?

The long narrow living room arranges more easily if the fireplace is on a long, rather than a narrow wall. But even so, doors that cut it off—and its distance away—often make a forgotten island of one end of the room. With most of the interesting furniture used elsewhere, how can it be made interesting, too?

★ ★ ★

THE BEST-LOOKING shelves you can build make the far-off wall good to look at from the floor to the ceiling. And make it from the floor to the ceiling—cut down the height of the shelving and you cut down both interest and good looks. They need not be the same box-like shelves you see everywhere. They can be designed like this with rounded edges extending beyond straight outlines. Custom tailor the shelf heights to fit the books you have, and your record albums and objects of art.

The wall may be completely covered with shelves and add only a comfortable chair or two, but if you're wondering what to do with a piano, so much the better. Build the shelves around the piano and it will look as if it belonged there as nowhere else. Set a spotlight into the ceiling at a point slightly behind the piano chair. You dramatize the whole wall that way while you give it extra light.

★ ★ ★

THE SHELVES here are backed by the actual wall of the room. Thus the wall color shows behind objects on the shelves as well as behind the piano, continuing the room's color scheme. You might not have as many books as these, but build your shelves high, wide and handsome anyway. Use them to show off more of the rest of your possessions—the shelves need not be full now but chances are they will be some day.

Knee-Length Hosiery

Knee-length nylon hosiery created especially for wear with hostess gowns, tapered slacks and other "at home" clothes that have become increasingly popular with the advent of television have arrived in time for the Christmas season. The new version of the shorter stocking is equipped with an elasticized top so that no garters or rolling will be necessary. In addition to sheer weights there are more practical weights for sports and campus wear.

Women's Suits

Women's suits now are available in a fabric containing a new fiber called "dacron" that increases wrinkle resistance in wet weather. The synthetic fiber is combined with wool in the creation of these new suits. Checks, tiny pin-point designs, stripes and solid colors are included in shades that trend toward pastel themes.

Next time you prepare gravy try adding a little Worcestershire sauce to it.

My Day

By Eleanor Roosevelt

PARIS.

IN this country, France, with such frequent changes of party, I should think one of the most difficult positions to occupy is the presidency. No sooner does the government fall than the president has to go to work and try to find someone to head up a new government.

It is certainly not the kind of system that gives any sense of stability either in domestic policies or foreign policies. And at the present time, when it would seem necessary for France to make some rather difficult decisions, it is certainly unfortunate to have a constant change of those in power.

★ ★ ★

IN COMMITTEE 3 we at least have reached the point where we shall now face actual resolutions and be able to vote on them.

I think we have had so many and such long speeches that the time has come for every member to curtail the length of his talks. The motion made by the delegate from Saudi Arabia to keep the replies to all attacks made by the Soviet group down to 10 minutes were accepted. While it was hard to answer in that time I think the speeches were better.

I had a number of talks both before and after lunch with various delegates and late in the afternoon I went to a meeting of a rather interesting new organization, founded some four months ago, called the Club for International Relations. Its members are made up of people from many different countries who are in Paris or who come there frequently and who cover many different fields of endeavor.

The meeting was opened by Francois Ollive, a brilliant chemist who had asked me before the meeting if I would have time to come and visit his factory which is organized on new lines and of which he is very proud. He seems to be a great admirer of the United States and speaks most kindly of all we have done and of the need for co-operation between our countries.

★ ★ ★

THERE FOLLOWED a really extraordinarily interesting speech by Dr. Leon Binet on medical and surgical co-operation and the development which had come about in the world because of this co-operation. This famous doctor is much interested in the International Children's Emergency Fund Center, which developed the inoculations for tuberculosis, which have saved so many children in Europe.

After this meeting I attended the reception given by the delegates of Saudi Arabia in honor of their King's birthday.

My husband remarked more than once, after his visit with the King on board his ship, that the King insisted that he had always been a warrior and that he always would be one. The other interests which Franklin suggested to him were interests that could be taken up with his sons or his brothers, but, said my husband, "he is a grand old man."

How It Started

By Jean Newton

An "Eyesore."

OUR correspondent refers to "eyesore" as a slang term, perhaps because it is not a euphemistic, that is, not an agreeable expression. Actually the dictionary defines the word as "Something offensive to the eye or sight."

Thus its employment as we know it in everyday speech seems to be quite orthodox. The thing you call an "eyesore" is not merely lacking in beauty of allure, it is something definitely and positively unpleasant to the point of annoyance. One is irritated for looking at something—or the very seeing of it—that could with propriety be termed an eyesore.

This seems to be one of the coinings of Shakespeare, for it is in his work that it enjoyed its first usage in print. It is in the second scene of Act. III of "The Taming of the Shrew" that it first appears on the record, thus: "Fie, doff this habit, shame to your estate
An eye-sore to our solemn festival."

"Double-Duty" Suits

Short-jacketed suits with full skirts are designed for "double-duty." The jacket, when made of a flannel or worsted fabric will look attractive with dresses and with skirts of novelty fabrics. The skirt may be worn with different blouses and sweaters as well as with a contrasting coat.

Displaying Charm With Your Gestures

MANY women who generally move with ease are suddenly dismayed to find they have knocked over a glass; perhaps, knocked against a piece of furniture. Or, as it is commonly expressed, feel "all thumbs" or "all feet" when trying to do something. Why? Understanding of the cause will help to prevent recurrences.

★ ★ ★

USUALLY, tension in the joints is responsible. When your body hinges are relaxed and flexible, gaucheries just don't occur. Joints become tense and lose their capacity for fluid motion as a result of too little exercise, a sudden attack of nerves, or of self-consciousness. To insure smooth performance at all times, learn to be aware of tension the moment it starts.

As an example of tension, make this experiment: Clasp your hands in your lap and squeeze the fingers tightly together. You'll feel tension running all the way up your arms. Look at your hands and you'll see how gawky and unpoised this tension makes them appear. Now, shake your hands hard; then lightly clasp them and let them fall relaxed to your lap. This time you'll feel the flow of relaxation all along your muscles. Look at your hands and you'll see grace and poise. The same principle of relaxation governs the grace of your feet, legs, arms, shoulders and head.

★ ★ ★

THESE TWO EXERCISES performed daily will transform an ordinary gesture into a lovely exhibit of your charm:

In front of your mirror, raise your arms, with palms up, to slightly below shoulder level. Check to be sure each joint feels relaxed. Then slowly and rhythmically swing your hands toward each other at chest level, gradually turning them over. By the time your wrists cross, your hands should be turned so that the palms face one another. Continue your swing until the backs of the hands rest on your shoulders. Reverse the swing to bring your hands back to starting position.

Swing both arms forward to full extension at shoulder level, palms down. Then, without pause, swing the arms down to your sides and up to shoulder level at the sides. Now, very gradually, describe wide arcs with your hands so that your wrists cross in front of your abdomen. With a quick upward fling, return your hands to the shoulder level position at the sides.

Contract Bridge

By Ely Culbertson

FOR players who are interested in the finer points of defense, the following case is recommended as a "bridge classic."

East, dealer.

	♠A52 ♥10 ♦KQJ108 ♣7543
♠864 ♥AKJ87 ♦642 ♣53	NORTH WEST EAST SOUTH	♠73 ♥Q3 ♦A764 ♣QJ1096
	♠KQJ109 ♥95 ♦92 ♣AK82

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
Pass	1♠	4♥	4♠
Pass	Pass	Pass

Before becoming a defender, West had to resist the temptation to "save" at five hearts against the four-spade contract. Certainly, West had no reason to feel that he could defeat four spades, but he was pretty sure that five hearts would "take a licking" so he passed and hoped for the best.

West made his natural opening lead, the heart king, and East struck a valiant blow for the defense by signaling vigorously with the heart queen. It is to be feared that many West players would read this as a "suit-preference" signal, asking for a shift to diamonds, but this West made no such horrible error—he led another high heart. This was ruffed in dummy, and declarer then made the good play of the diamond king. East correctly held up his ace, but when the diamond queen followed, he took the trick and shifted to the queen of clubs.

South of course covered, and it was here that West displayed his imagination! If he ruffed the trick, where would the setting trick come from? Dummy's diamonds were obviously good, and the spade ace would be there for final entry. So West cooly discarded on declarer's club ace!

South sensed exactly what was transpiring and laid down the club king to offer West more bait, but again West discarded a heart! South was now helpless. He cashed the spade king and led to dummy's ace, but West ruffed the diamond that was played next—South having discarded a club—and there was still one low club in South's hand that had to go to the defenders. Down one!

Let's Explore Your Mind

Answer to Question 1.

NO. It's often a sign he or she doesn't know how to get dates, and feels inferior. Some teen-agers fall back on high marks as a means of gaining superiority. Don't let me discourage them from healthy efforts to learn, but teachers, school counselors and parents should see to it that kids learn how to "belong" and have good times in groups with the opposite sex.

Answer to Question 2.

No, not unless you let your anger abate intentionally, and with an understanding of the psychology of winning arguments. Otherwise you feel defeated and keep on boiling inside for hours—some people keep on for a lifetime. How to get this last word yourself, and yet keep the other fellow from feeling defeated is told in our booklet, "How to Win Your Arguments." Sent at cost, 15 cents (coin only) plus self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Answer to Question 3.

Yes. Many children develop such deep feelings of inferiority, caused largely by parents or school teachers, that they try to appear stupid so they can avoid facing and solving the problems of life.

GRAINS MOVE LOWER ON CHICAGO BOARD

CHICAGO, Jan. 12 (AP)—Grain prices sank quietly on the Board of Trade today after an initial burst of strength in wheat soon played out. Losses were not large anywhere, but the market showed a distinct lack of rallying power.

Mills bought wheat the opening, reflecting large flour sales by southwestern mills overnight. Once this demand was satisfied wheat dealings dried up. However, the bread cereal turned in a better performance than corn, which was under hedging pressure throughout the day.

Near the close wheat was unchanged to ¾c lower, March $2.58; corn ¾ @ 1¼c lower, March $1.90½; oats ¼ @ ½c lower, March 94¾c; rye ¼ @ ¾c lower, March $2.11; soybeans 1¼ @ 1½c lower, Jan. $3.00¼; lard (cwt.) unchanged to 2c highe, Jan. $14.55.

OIL LIST TAKES PLAY IN STOCKS' 3RD DAY RISE

Remainder of Market Does Well to Stretch Plus Signs Past a Point.

NEW YORK, Jan. 12 (AP)—Oils took the play away from the rest of the stock market today with a strong advance that put them ahead by fractions to around 2 points.

At the same time the volume of business expanded rapidly, helped by a number of large blocks, to 740,000 shares. That is the largest Saturday total since Oct. 27 when 1,140,000 shares changed hands in the midst of a severe break. Last Saturday's sales were 491,000 shares.

Of 896 issues traded 406 closed up, 240 down, 250 unchanged.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks closed up .2 of a point at 100.4.

Dow-Jones utility index advanced .04 of a point to 48.94, a new 21-year high.)

Oils made a sparkling advance yesterday and pulled the market along, and today they were active and higher right from the first, although the gains were modest when compared with the wide upsweep yesterday.

The remainder of the market did well to stretch plus signs past a point. Minus marks were scattered and relatively small.

Stocks moving ahead included Cities Service, Amerada Petroleum, Standard Oil (N.J.), Sunray Oil, Deep Rock Oil, Texas Pacific Land Trust, Mid-Continent Petroleum, Socony-Vacuum, Union Pacific, Canadian Pacific, American Smelting, Anaconda Copper, American Cyanamid, Dow Chemical, American Tobacco, Youngstown Sheet & Tube, J. I. Case and Distillers, Corp.-Seagrams.

The volume was boosted by these blocks: Gulf Oil, 3000, up 1⅛ at 55; General Instrument, 4700, up ½ at 10¼; Gar Wood, 2800, up ⅛ at 7¾, and Continental Steel, 4500, off ¾ at 22¾.

Buying in the oils was encouraged by one announcement after another of new oil and gas wells in Canada and the United States. New Saskatchewan wells this week received the most attention. The stocks of oil companies were not alone in receiving buying favor. Many other companies with only a subsidiary interest in new wells or new producing fields were actively sought in the rush to get in on the rise.

The market has advanced for the past three days, more than wiping out losses incurred in the first three days of this week. The strength shown by the market in blotting up selling and the readiness of buyers to enter with active bids was stressed.

In the curb market, stocks were generally higher. Among them were Arkansas Natural Gas "A," Brazilian Traction, Canada Southern Oils, Imperial Oil, International Petroleum, and Woodley Petroleum.

Corporate bonds were steady.

Vealers finished $1 @ $3 lower, most decline on good and prime, while relatively small change was indicated on a meager supply of replacement steers that found slightly expanded demand. Prime 1053-lb. steers topped at $36.25 and 1113-lb. steers at $35.75, odd head high prime to $37.50 and a few prime mixed yearlings $36. Good and choice steers and heifers bulked at $31 @ $34, commercial and low good $28 @ 30.50. Utility and commercial cows bulked for the week at $22 @ $25. Utility and commercial bulls went mainly at $25 @ $29, an early week top of $29.25 and closing peak $28.75. Good and choice vealers bulked at $30 @ $38, limited numbers of prime $39 @ $41 and a few to $42 in the Monday session. Utility and commercial vealers largely $22 @ $28.

Compared with the close last week, barrows and gilts, 180 lbs. up, finished this week 25c to 50c lower, lighter weights $1.25 to $1.50 lower and sows 75c lower. Top prices ranged from $18.35, which equaled the low of the season to $18.75, latter paid Friday. COTTON OFF 25C TO $1.25

NEW YORK, Jan. 12 (AP)—Trading in cotton futures was quiet today. While price trends were easier, movements were narrow.

Hedging and liquidation centered in May and July contracts with this selling absorbed by spot houses on the scale down.

The market seemed to await fresh developments, particularly from Washington regarding price supports on the new crop.

NEW YORK, Jan. 12—Futures closed 25 cents to $1.15 a bale lower than the previous close.

CHAPTER 33.
(Conclusion.)

RAIN was falling as Trudy drove alone, back to Darrow Hill. When she parked the car under the porte-cochere, it was dark, and pouring hard.

Walter was waiting for her.

"Mr. Moore has returned," he said. "He is waiting for you in his office."

Trudy was eager to talk to Josie first, to learn what had happened during her absence. But she felt she couldnt keep the attorney waiting any longer.

Loren Moore was sitting at his desk. Harrison was with him.

"Miss Wright," he said. "You know Mr. Harrison."

Moore again apologized for the absence of Karna, then immediately asked about the "stolen" necklace.

"Josie was the only person in the house, as far as we know, who knew the combination of the safe," he told her. "She won't discuss the matter until Miss Karna returns. Perhaps you can help us."

"Yes, I can," Trudy said without hesitation. "When Dr. Rowland and Lillian tried to blackmail me, I couldn't contact either Karna or you. I was entirely on my own resources and wanted to handle the situation to save Karna any possible embarrassment.

"So I asked Josie to get something from the safe that was worthless, or practically so. I had heard the burglar alarm ring the other day, and that gave me the idea."

"We learned that alarm was caused by faulty wiring," Harrison explained.

"Nevertheless, the alarm suggested the safe," Trudy continued. Josie brought me the imitation diamonds, and I planted them in the doctor's room. Is that what you want to know?"

ASTOUNDED at Trudy's frankness, the men looked at each other for a moment. Then Harrison spoke:

"But Dr. Rowland denies the blackmail story. He says an enemy framed him with the necklace."

"That problem is easily solved," Trudy assured the men. She was cool and collected, her visit with Karna having given her confidence.

"Make Dr. Rowland take you to Lillian. He has hidden her in an apartment in the city. She has been drunk since the blackmail plot was hatched."

Nervous and agitated, Moore got to his feet.

"You are a remarkable young woman," he admitted. "You seem to have the answer to everything. Our only difficulty in trying your plan is that the doctor, unfortunately, has disappeared."

"I am not surprised," Trudy said quietly. "That was my object in planting the necklace in his room."

"I've made mistakes," the lawyer confessed. "Rowland isn't a doctor, at all. I took him off an ambulance and brought him here to stop Miss Karna's hysterics. I should have moved him out long ago. I just procrastinated, I guess.

"Now, what about the note Mrs. Holmes says she signed? By the way, she and her son have packed up and gone, too."

"Her son?" Trudy asked in surprise.

"Yes, David is her son. She wanted to appear young, and passed him off as her nephew for that reason. They were two more of my mistakes, evidently. Anyway they are gone."

"Karna will be glad to hear that. She planned to fire Mrs. Holmes tomorrow."

Moore looked at her in amazement.

"You've seen Karna?"

"What's she doing? When is she coming home? I thought she was in New York. That girl will drive me mad," the attorney raged.

"She'll be home soon," Trudy said quietly. "You'll find a change in Karna."

"I sincerely trust so," Moore exclaimed. "You've been here less than a week," he added, "and you know more about this irresponsible household than I do."

TRUDY then told how she tricked Mrs. Holmes and David into signing the note, to repay Ed for the money he had advanced.

"Now I'm going to Josie," she told them.

She met Ed in the hall.

"This is for you," she said, handing him Karna's check for $3000.

"But why from Miss Karna? And why $3000?" he asked.

"As soon as I talk to Josie we'll go to Karna and you can ask her. She's in the city."

A half-hour later Trudy and Ed returned to the Cadillac to start for the apartment. As Trudy went around the car, Lillian, reeking of liquor, sprang from the darkness and clawed at her face.

As Ed pulled her away she yelled at Trudy:

"You dirty four-flusher. I'll mark you for life for the lousy trick you played on me!"

Lillian was so drunk she could scarcely stand, but she had a pair of small scissors in her hand. Only her condition saved Trudy from serious injury.

"Max walked out on me!" Lillian screamed. "He promised me $5000. It's all your fault," she added, pointing at Trudy.

Walter hurried down from the porch and took the babbling maid away.

"I think I'm folding up," Trudy said weakly.

Ed picked her up in his arms. She was soft and warm, and as she sank limply into his embrace he kissed her. Then he carried her inside the house.

"I'm sorry," he said. "I went completely haywire."

"You didn't mean it?" Trudy asked.

"I had no right to take advantage of you that way."

"Oh! I understand, Miss Millions. That's what's worrying you."

Trudy indicated her handbag.

"Open my purse. Count the money," she said.

Wondering and mystified Ed counted out $38.

"That's every cent I have in the world," Trudy told him. "I'm just a phony Miss Millions. Does that make a difference?"

It did. Ed convinced her beyond any doubt.

When Trudy recovered her breath she asked him:

"Do you still want that bookkeeper for your office?"

"My office will have to wait," he said. "Harrison has made an offer I can't refuse. Head of the protective police at the mills."

"Perhaps I can fit in some place else," Trudy said with a smile.

When they reached Trudy's apartment, Ralph had returned. He was introduced to Ed, and began to tell him his troubles.

"Were you ever taken by a skirt?" he asked. "I was. Never had a chance."

He looked at Karna belligerently.

"She moved in on me. Rode in my car. Got my meals. Borrowed money from me. Conspired with the Army, so they took my patents. Rigged a commission for me. Just a poor kid with a heart of gold.

"Now what does she tell me? She's loaded with money. Practically owns the mills, where she's plugging phone cords in a PBX board so she can keep her eye on me. Who can a guy believe?"

"Not any dame," Ed agreed, putting his arm about Trudy. "This one took me, plenty. You might as well give up. Throw in the towel."

"You never should have left here," Ralph complained to Trudy. "Look what happened to me as a result."

"And you love it," Trudy said laughing.

"It's getting crowded in here. Get out. Scram!" Karna screamed at Trudy and Ed. She ran across the room, sank into Ralph's lap and wrapped her arms tightly about him.

"We're not welcome," Trudy said dramatically.

"They're inhospitable," Ed agreed as the two backed from the room and closed the door quietly. At the top of the stairs Trudy asked:

"Could you carry me downstairs, too?"

Ed lifted her in his arms. She snuggled down, her face close to his as she had done a short time before when he carried her upstairs at Darrow Hill.

"Please, dear, don't hurry this time," she whispered.

RIPLEY'S BELIEVE IT OR NOT

OUT OUR WAY—By J. R. Williams

Uncle Ray's Column

By Ramon Coffman

PERHAPS you will remember the series we had about electric refrigerators. In it I spoke about the history of this method of keeping food cold, and of the progress it means for the world.

The articles brought me several letters from men who work in the ice industry. These readers feel that something should be said about the progress in making iceboxes, and about the "moist cold" which they provide.

★ ★ ★

IT IS TRUE that makers of iceboxes have improved their products. Many of those which are made today look very "trim," indeed.

It is also true that there is moistness in the air inside such iceboxes. This moistness is helpful in keeping vegetables fresh. When vegetables lose their freshness, they lose some of their vitamins.

The makers of electric refrigerators agree that vegetables should be kept from losing their moisture. For this reason most of their refrigerators are fitted with covered drawers in which vegetables are kept.

Other foods besides vegetables may lose their moisture, and it has become a widespread custom for housewives to use covered dishes in electric refrigerators.

During recent years, some electric refrigerators have been built in such a way as to provide humid air in the entire storage space.

★ ★ ★

QUITE ASIDE from the use of iceboxes as home refrigerators, the ice industry has gone forward in several fields. It has become a widespread custom for dealers in certain foods—especially fish and vegetables—to display them in the midst of chipped ice. Reports indicate that this adds to the volume of sales.

Ice is employed to keep vegetables, fruits and meats cold while they are on railway refrigerator cars, also on ocean vessels.

An interesting step in recent years has been the use of ice water sprays on vegetables and fruits. Such sprays are applied, in many cases, soon after the picking is done.
